CROWDS VIEW NORTHGATE

Early shoppers were the lucky ones today, avoiding afternoon crowds as 16 new stores opened in the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael. Mall of center presented this appearance shortly after a 9:15 a.m. "grand opening" program. Stores in the center will remain open until 9 p.m. today. The 16 stores opening include a department store, shoe stores, jewelers, women's wear, candies and optical goods. Still more will open within the next month. Special events during the "grand opening" will include a fireworks show at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow. (Independent-Journal photo)

White House Sit-In Staged; Marchers Ready To Resume

Beaten Pastor Is Near Death

COMBINED AP & UPI

SELMA, Ala.—About 200 Negro and white civil rights demonstrators massed at the "Berlin Rope" today and prepared to resume a march that police have held in check since yesterday.

The "Berlin Rope" is the name marchers gave to a rope which Public Safety Director Wilson Baker strung across the street to separate officers and demonstrators.

Green-helmeted state conservation corps officers were standing by to prevent any such resumption of the march. They carried billy clubs and cattle prods.

Baker said, however, that there would be no violence if a breakthrough was attempted. He said his men would simply step in and make mass arrests.

About 400 Negroes and white clergymen from 30 states bivouacked in the street last night when police halted a prayer vigil march, called in sympathy for a white Boston clergyman who is near death as a result of a beating suffered in Selma.

The marathon demonstration, before a police line, began shortly after dark last night for the Rev. James Reeb, a white clergyman of Boston whose severe beating during racial demonstrations two nights ago sparked nationwide protests.

Reeb lay near death in a Birmingham hospital. Four white men have been arrested on both state and federal charges in connection with the attack.

The demonstrators bivouacked in the street during the night, huddled against the chill in blankets and bed rolls.

When dawn broke today the demonstrators sang "Ain't Nobody Going to Turn Us 'Round."

In Montgomery Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. told a federal judge today he led a massive street march in Selma three days ago after a government spokesman assured him "everything will be all right."

King testified in a hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., who had before him a petition by civil rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A defiant group of civil rights demonstrators staged a Selma protest sit-in in the White House today and demanded to see President Johnson.

A spokesman said that if the meeting wasn't arranged, the demonstrators would have to be forcibly hauled out of the executive mansion.

Dick Brown, a Washington Negro, told newsmen: "They're going to stay there until they drag them out or put them out. They want to see the President take action in Selma."

Newsmen and photographers were not allowed to cover the actual demonstration. White House police tried for several hours to persuade the protesters to leave voluntarily.

As time went on, patrol wagons were seen taking up station on the White House grounds.

The demonstrators, numbering about a dozen, gained entry to the White House by joining a public tour. On the lower floor corridor where they entered, they suddenly plopped themselves down and began singing "We Shall Overcome."

The protest began about 11:30 a.m. EST. The White House police chief, Maj. Ralph Stover, was summoned immediately. He began talking to the demonstrators, urging them to leave peacefully.

Stover's attempt to talk the sit-inners into leaving indicated that the White House—if possible—wanted to avoid any display of force. The police and the U.S. Secret Service have the legal right to eject any visitor from the executive mansion at any time.

The public tours of the White House were abruptly halted when the sit-in began. Tourists who were waiting in line for admission to the executive mansion were turned away.

BURNS: U.C. FUSS IS KERR'S FAULT

Claims President Didn't Use Power; Press Conference Resignations Hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns said today University of California President Clark Kerr had "neglected to use his authority and brought upon himself the recent problems."

Kerr and Chancellor Martin Myerson of U.C.'s Berkeley campus announced Tuesday that they are resigning. (See also story, photo, page 6.)

The Democratic Senate leader said "a state of anarchy now exists on the Berkeley campus."

"Disciplinary action must be taken now," he added.

Burns also said that Kerr had refused to use a security system "that had been set up on the campus.

Then Burns said the former national head of the Communist Youth movement had been hired as a teacher at U.C.

"And as far as I know," the senator added, "he's still teaching.

Burns refused to disclose the instructor's name.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh then predicted that unless the California faculty "joins together in an effort to solve the problems, there may be a loss of learning at this great university."

Unruh said the faculty "is so split now that it can't move in any direction."

"Unless the faculty accepts its responsibility as campus leaders," Unruh added, "someone

Only Two City Candidates Still Await Filings

Lawrence B. Thomas of 163 Oak Drive today filed completed petitions of candidacy for a position on the San Rafael Board of Education.

Thomas is a labor arbitrator. He has been employed in arbitration by both Pacific Maritime Assn. and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

He became the third to file for two vacancies on the board of education. A fourth candidate, Kenneth M. Proctor, has taken out papers and is expected to file before the deadline at 5 p.m. tomorrow. Walter R. Castro Jr. and Lawrence M. Kramer Jr. filed earlier.

Neither of the two incumbent school board members whose terms expire — Mrs. Bella H. Aaron and John M. Bagshaw—is seeking re-election.

C. Paul Bettini, who has announced his candidacy for mayor, said he plans to file his completed petitions tomorrow morning. He will run for the office against Dr. Charles W. Aby,

Northgate Fete Waits Throngs Of Shoppers

San Rafael police forecast 2,500 of the 4,000 parking spaces at Northgate Shopping Center would be occupied by mid-afternoon, as crowds poured to the center this morning for a three-day "grand opening" of 16 more stores.

Opening festivities were marked at 9:30 a.m. with speeches by Hugh Turner, president of the Marin Visitors Bureau; Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael, and Jerome C. Draper Jr., president of the Draper Companies, Northgate developers, and acceptance of a large "key to the center" from Draper by R. George Walker, president of the center's merchants association and merchandise manager of H. Liebes and Co.

Many newly opened stores participating in the three-day opening celebration worked late last night readying showrooms and merchandise for today. Mrs. Helen Gray, owner of Modern Eve, said some of her employees worked as late as 3 a.m. to get the store ready.

The stores will be open until 9:30 p.m. today. The Emporium was increasing its sales staff

Rail Tunnel Fight Attorney Sees Daylight—But When?

The legal battle over the Puerto Suello Railway tunnel will come to an end sometime, according to attorney Boris H. Lakusta, who has been fighting for the re-opening.

But Lakusta was unable today to say exactly when, even though the State Supreme Court yesterday rejected an appeal by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad against a Public Utilities Commission order to re-open the burned tunnel.

The tunnel, partially destroyed by fire on July 22, 1961, has been before the Interstate Commerce Commission, the district federal court, the U.S. Supreme Court and the State Supreme Court.

In all cases the rulings have been to open the tunnel and restore normal rail service to Marin. But railroad attorneys have repeatedly appealed these rulings.

The PUC ruling, issued Sept. 22, 1964, called for work to restore the tunnel to start in 50 days and completion to be 150 days after that. This would mean the line would be restored by April 11.

The railroad's appeal, however, stayed this schedule indefinitely. To reestablish a deadline, the PUC will have to meet again on the issue, a PUC spokesman said today.

Lakusta, representing San Rafael and other interested cities and industries in Marin which want service restored, said the railroad will undoubtedly appeal the state court's ruling either by asking for a re-hearing or by taking the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lakusta also pointed out that the railroad still has a petition before the Interstate Commerce Commission to reconsider its bid to abandon the tunnel and either the line to Tiburon or the line to Sausalito.

Freak Mishap Kills Marinite On Bayshore

Donald M. Toines of Larkspur, father of seven children, was killed last night in a freak accident on the Bayshore Freeway in South San Francisco.

The crash also killed a truck driver who went to Toines' aid.

California Highway Patrol officers said Robert M. Spence, 33, of Redwood City, may have been inside Toines' car, trying to remove him, when the auto was hit by a car driven by Elfrieda A. Robertson, 36, of San Francisco.

Toines, 28, lived at 4 Cane Court in Larkspur. He was a driver for the Marin Sanitary Service for the past six years, always working in Larkspur. He had moved to Larkspur from San Francisco almost a year ago.

Patrolmen reported the fatal accident began at 10:50 p.m. near the San Bruno overpass when Toines' northbound Volkswagen Microbus left the roadway, hit a fence in the divider strip, bounced back and landed on its side in the fast lane of the highway.

Spence, driving a gasoline tank truck in the opposite direction, saw the accident, stopped his rig, crossed the roadway and climbed through a hole in the fence to give aid, officers reported.

While he was in or near the overturned bus, it was hit by Mrs. Robertson's car, going about 65 miles an hour. Mrs Robertson was injured and taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco.

Both Toines and Spence were killed. Officer could not tell whether Toines might have been

Judge Orders Desegregation

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize ordered today this Mississippi capital city to complete the desegregation of its public school system by 1969.

Schools here were desegregated without incident at the first-grade level last fall under a scheduled grade-a-year plan.

Mize's order had been asked by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP criticized the grade-a-year plan as being too slow and ineffective.

U.S. Bomber Lost On Raid Against Viet Cong Troops

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force jet bombers and fighter-bombers carried out secret bombing missions against the Communists today.

One B57 twin-jet was lost while dropping napalm on Viet Cong troops 390 miles northeast of Saigon in another attack.

South Vietnamese fighter bombers and the B57's hit Communist targets inside South Viet Nam while a force of between 15 and 20 F100 fighter-bombers roared off from Da Nang to hit unannounced targets, believed to be Communist supply lines in Laos.

The pilot and co-pilot of the downed B57 apparently parachuted to safety but were not found. It was the first B57 lost in action against the Communists. Five other B57 pilots on the same raid said there was no ground fire in the area.

Transport planes dropped parachute flares over the crash scene tonight to light up the scene for searchers. Fighter-bombers and U.S. helicopters bristling with rockets and machineguns protected search parties which reached the wreckage.

U.S. Air Force officials declined to disclose the target. Raids from Da Nang have been directed against Communist North Viet Nam, Communist supply routes in Laos, and Viet Cong positions in South Viet Nam.

In Washington it was understood today new U.S. military attacks on Communist North Viet Nam were imminent.

Officials declined to discuss operational possibilities. But they acknowledged that failure

President Inspects Job Corps Camp

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — Probably no commanding officer has inspected an enlisted men's barracks the way President Johnson swept through the nation's Job Corps camp.

He wandered in and out of buildings, observed some physical training routines, poked into the mess hall to drink coffee with the boys, and bounced up and down on a dormitory bed.

Hand out-thrust, his tone chit-chatty, the President asked for names, for hometowns, inquired into progress and often played it for laughs.

"Any of you-all takin' photography? Plenty of jobs should be open," he remarked to riotous laughter as cameras recorded eagerly his coffee-drinking session.

But the chief executive also struck a serious stance yesterday, telling one youth after another: "A lot depends on how you fellows make out. If you make a good job of it, the Congress will go along and make a lot of training available to other fellows."

The Job Corps camp, six miles up the Catoctin Mountains from here, is the first of 77 proposed conservation centers in 33 states. It is not far from Camp David, a rustic retreat used by every president since Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Johnson drew on his own experiences — drifting from job to job until he decided to enroll in college — when he grabbed one young man by the arm, marched him along by his side, and proferred some paternal advice.

"Write home because when I was in California as a boy, my mother was always after me to write," he said.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Queen May See Duchess Of Windsor

LONDON (AP)—After 29 years, Queen Elizabeth II is ending the British royal boycott of the Duchess of Windsor.

As the duke—her uncle—lay ill in London with the sight of one eye in danger, the queen let it be known she intends to visit him and meet the American-born divorcee for whom he gave up the British throne in 1936.

Queen

No previous meeting between the queen and the duchess is on record. The general belief in London is that they have never met.

The queen intended the meeting to take place today. But the duke, lying immobile and with his eyes bandadged after his fourth major operation in three months, was said by his physicians to be too ill to receive visitors.

Duchess

The queen is expected to visit her uncle when his doctors decide he is well enough.

"This is not a casual meeting," said a spokesman for Buckingham Palace. "It has been arranged that when the queen goes to visit the duke, the duchess will be with him."

Bishop Pike Wants Clergy To March

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If the federal government does not act, Bishop James A. Pike warns, then the nation's clergy may converge on Selma, Ala., to risk "mayhem, jail and death."

The Episcopal Bishop of California offered vigorous support to Alabama civil rights workers yesterday when he returned from viewing the struggles at Selma.

Bishop Pike appealed to the federal government to bring "the best arms it has to Alabama."

Peace Urged

STANFORD (AP) — A petition urging peace in Viet Nam has been signed by 144 Stanford University faculty members and aides and sent to Prasident Johnson.

Arms Plea Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to cut in half President Johnson's request for a four-year, $55-million authority for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. It adopted 50 to 38 Wednesday an amendment to a House-passed bill to reduce the new authority two years and $20 million over protests by the agency's supporters.

Wilson Is 49

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson planned a business-as-usual day on his 49th birthday today. Aides said he would attend a cabinet meeting in the morning and a House of Commons session later.

Hit De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington accused French President Charles de Gaulle today of using "the crowbar and the hammer to destroy the hopes of Western civilization." He said, De Gaulle's greatness "is being tarnished by his efforts, at the expense of his friends and allies, to attain world power for his nation."

Japanese Farm Workers Use Revoked

Poor Treatment Of American Hands Is Cited

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Ventura County growers organization's right to use Japanese workers to harvest lemons has been revoked by an angry state official. Poor treatment of American workers was cited as a main reason.

In reporting his action yesterday, State Employment Director Albert Tieburg also had a warning for California growers, who contend they are suffering a labor shortage because the foreign labor importation program ended and there aren't enough American replacements.

LABOR SHORTAGES

"I am of the opinion we have farm labor shortages and will have more," Tieburg commented. "Everyone, however, is going to have to abide by the rules and do everything not only to recruit American workers but to retain them by treating them properly. Otherwise, I will not permit the use of foreign workers, no matter how many are allocated to California" by the federal government.

The Japanese, previously idled moved into the county Tuesday to help harvest a $40 million lemon crop. Tieburg's action took away the foreign help from S.P. Growers of Santa Paula.

He said that on Tuesday, without warning or choice, 40 American workers were transferred from single men's barracks at Briggs Lemon Co. and put into eight-person family units.

UNCLEAN CONDITIONS

Twelve Japanese laborers were installed in the quarters the Americans had occupied. But, Tieburg reported, an investigation that night in the Americans' new housing showed no hot water, no light, no heat, unclean conditions and some unworkable plumbing.

But the Japanese had gas for heat, hot water and electricity—although "cleanliness still left much to be desired" in the Americans' old housing.

"The fact that these single men were transferred to family housing at a time when the availability of family housing for citrus pickers and their families was being disclaimed within itself would have caused me to withdraw authorization to use foreign workers," Tieburg explained.

"It is a disservice to all agriculture and a shame that one group has given growers a bad name as a result of this incident," he added.

Alcohol Move

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — C. Julian Bartlett, an adviser on California's Public Health committee on alcoholism, said yesterday that Gov. Brown will ask for $2.1 million to finance the state's attack on alcoholism.

Pressure Mounts For U.S. Intervention In Alabama

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

More protest demonstrations were held in cities across the nation over the situation in Selma, Ala., with increasing demands for federal intervention.

As thousands marched in sympathy with the drive by Alabama Negroes for voting rights, governors, senators and church groups spoke out yesterday.

There were demands for stronger law-enforcement protection in the wake of the attack in Selma on three white ministers.

One of those clubbed, the Rev. James A. Reeb, 38, of Boston, was in critical condition in a Birmingham hospital.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, threatened a massive march on Washington unless President Johnson endorses new voting rights legislation and sends federal officers into Alabama by Sunday.

Soon after returning from Selma, Farmer told a New York news conference: "I am certainly charging that President Johnson has not been forceful enough."

The latest demonstrations were held in San Francisco, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Cambridge, Mass.; Madison, Wis.; Buffalo, N.Y.; Joliet, Ill., and in front of the White House.

The National Council of Churches called for a meeting tomorrow of religious leaders from across the country. The gathering will be at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in Washington.

"Now is the time for all religious leaders to come together to follow up on the upsurge of American conscience," said Dr. J. Oscar Lee, associate executive director of the council's commission on religion and race.

Demonstrations at the federal building in Los Angeles resulted in 98 arrests, including 29 persons who were charged with obstruction of U.S. mail after they lay down in front of mail trucks and were forcibly removed. The building was closed early.

Leslie N. Shaw, Negro postmaster of Los Angeles, criticized the demonstrations.

Harry Bridges, West Coast longshoremen's union leader, told 1,500 persons at a San Francisco rally that his 65,000 union members would "refuse to handle any goods or merchandise from Alabama until the rights of all the people of Alabama are recognized and fully protected."

Wisconsin Gov. Warren P. Knowles spoke from the Madison Capitol steps to praise more than 100 Beloit College students who had marched 50 miles in two days from their campus to show that Wisconsin citizens have the "freedom to demonstrate freely."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York told a civil rights meeting in a Washington church that he deplored "the ruthless denial of the most fundamental and precious right of every American, the right to vote."

Bombs Possibility

WASHINGTON — Thomas S. Power, a retired Air Force general who once headed the Strategic Air Command, says a few SAC bombers could end the war in Viet Nam successfully in a few days by dropping heavy loads of conventional bombs on major military targets in North Viet Nam. Power makes this statement in his newly published book "Design for Survival."

BUGS VANISH WHEN STEREO DROWNS BUZZ

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—Don't be annoyed if your neighbor's stereo seems too loud — he may be just chasing off insects.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported yesterday that it is experimenting with the use of sound as a weapon.

A spokesman said the experiments started when a laboratory staffer noticed that mosquitoes stayed away from a portion of his patio where sound was directed from the speakers of his stereo.

The department started working on sound and found that amplified sound at a given frequency cut down on insects' egg production 75 per cent and also caused adverse effects among insects' offspring.

Toddler Returns To Fiery House

REDLANDS (AP) — Firemen say 3-year-old Timothy Gibson, evacuated from his flaming home by his mother, followed her back in and hid under a bed. He died of suffocation.

Mrs. Maude Gibson, 24, told investigators that she led Timothy and his 5-year-old sister, Susan, out of the house Wednesday when flames flared up in the kitchen. But when she went back for her baby, Robert, 4 months, both children followed.

She got Susan and Robert out but couldn't find Timothy.

Italians Protest In Tennis Shoes

ROME (AP) — More than 300 physical education students did a little political exercise in sweat suits and tennis shoes in downtown Rome Wednesday.

They stretched out on the street in front of the Parliament building, dodged policemen trying to bundle them into vans, then double-timed for a mile while a traffic jam piled up behind them.

The purpose of the exercise was to protest a government bill that would give full status as teachers of physical education to graduates of a crash three-month course.

Bridges Urges Dock Boycott On Alabama

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, is urging his men to vote a dock boycott against the state of Alabama.

Bridges told an ILWU rally yesterday in front of the San Francisco Federal Building that "we will hit" Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama "where it hurts."

Waterworks District Proposal Faces Delay

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission today postponed for two weeks action on formation of a waterworks district, which would be the first of its kind in Marin.

The area proposed for the district consists of about 1,000 acres, about two miles east of Nicasio, extending north from Lucas Valley road to Halleck Creek.

John F. Barrows, executive officer of the commission, said the most serious problem involved would be setting of a precedent for fragmentation of water and possibly sewer services.

"The eastern populated areas of Marin are continuing to suffer from piecemeal approach to sanitation and waste disposal," while the same area is better served by two water districts, Barrows said.

Setting a precedent of small, single community districts for water service, as well as for sewer service, would set the stage for a continual series of problems as population growth continues, he contended.

Purpose of the district would be to develop a water supply and construct, maintain and operate a water system.

The resolution of intention to form the district was submitted by Frank S. Soares Jr., 14 Crestweed Drive, San Rafael; Kenny Burt, Forest Knolls, and Lee Roy, San Francisco.

Alternative to forming the district would be annexation of the area to the Marin Municipal Water District, Barrows said. This, he said, would be more expensive, about $700,000 compared to about $200,000 formation costs including distribution lines. But the costs could be offset when later users tied into the line that would be extended to the annexation area, he continued.

The area is now uninhabited ranch land, but the proponents forecast a population of 2,000 to 2,500 within 10 years.

The Local Agency Formation commission also:

1. Approved annexation to the City of Novato, of 62 acres north of Vineyard Road, on both sides of Sutro Avenue between Dominic Drive and Oak Valley Drive, designated as Sutro Avenue Annexation.

2. Approved realignment of boundaries of Ross Valley Sanitary district and San Rafael Sanation district, which involved a series of annexations and deannexations along the ridgeline between San Rafael and Ross Valley. The realignment covers about 92 acres stretched out in a jagged line across the ridgeline.

3. Approved annexation of four acres at Center Road and Wilson Avenue to Novato sanitary district.

4. Agreed to meet at 5 p.m. March 22 at Sabella's restaurant to take a tour of the Alto area, prior to consideration of the proposed incorporation of the city of Alto at 7:30 p.m. that day at the Civic Center.

Incumbent city councilman. Mayor John F. McInnis is not seeking another term.

The field for council appeared complete today with four candidates filed: incumbents Louis H. (Bud) Baar and Harry A. Barbier, Irwin F. Taranto and Joseph R. Filippo. City Clerk W. C. Cornwell said no more papers have been taken out.

Taranto, who filed yesterday, issued a statement today saying his basic reason for running for city council is "the recognition that the practices and policies of the city have not kept pace with the growth of the population."

Taranto offered what he called a "five-star program" as follows:

"1. Effective planning and subdivision ordinances.

"2. Improvement of the business climate, with emphasis on downtown San Rafael.

"3. Planning for services before their lack becomes a financial and personal loss.

"4. Better cooperation among governmental bodies.

"5. Uniting the various parts and sections of the city into one homogeneous entity."

Thomas said his primary reason for running for board of education "is that I have two children in San Rafael schools and another graduated last year." One now attends San Rafael High School; the other, San Pedro School.

Thomas said he had no major complaint about the San Rafael school system "but I believe there can be some improvement in its conduct."

He said, "We need a new approach to some problems, particularly in expansion of the curriculum and adopting new educational ideas." The San Rafael schools, he declared, have been too slow in adopting new methods.

Nag Wreaks Havoc With 101 Traffic

A horse loose on Highway 101 today was blamed for an auto crash that injured three persons.

Three horses escaped from the Fagundes Ranch at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road. They were reported galloping over the highway a little after 1 a.m.

Sheriff's deputies and Marin County Humane Society officers corraled two of them. But the third escaped, after running into the path of a semi-trailer truck and knocking off one of its fog lights.

At 7 a.m. the horse was back on the highway. California Highway Patrol officers gave chase. As traffic stopped to make way for the horse, a car driven by Robert Kremer, 57, of 340 Keystone Court, Marinwood, struck one ahead driven by Richard L. Keith, 34, of East Sonoma.

Kremer and two passengers in Keith's car, Mrs. Elaine Keith, 31, and Richard Harper, 25, of 2008 Hatch Road, Novato, suffered cuts and bruises.

The highway patrol finally got the horse back behind the fence of the Fagundes pasture.

Missing nine days

Two Youths Missing Nine Days

Two Fairfax area youths have been away from home nine days, and police have no leads on where they might be.

Braith Cleary, 14, son of Mrs. Marsh Damon of 17 Woodland Drive, Fairfax, and Charles Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson of 27 Mariele Drive, Oak Manor, were suspended from Sir Francis Drake High School March 2 and did not go home.

Police say the Wilson boy is 15, but the parents say he is 14. He is six feet, two inches, weighs 165 pounds, has brown hair and hazel eyes. Cleary is five feet, seven inches, has light brown hair and blue eyes.

Both boys called their homes last week saying they would be home Sunday, but they failed to return.

leaders for a right-to-march order.

The stocky, slow-talking King, who led a march by 2,500 Negroes and white clergymen in Selma but turned back when faced by police, testified that he did not intend to defy an order of the judge.

Johnson had directed civil rights leaders to suspend their planned march from Selma to Montgomery until he could decide the legal issues.

The judge earlier today rejected a motion by Sheriff James G. Clark of Dallas County that King be held in contempt for leading a street march at Selma.

Marin Ambulance Out Of Business

Marin Ambulance, 4 Ward Avenue, Corte Madera, went out of business at noon today due to financial difficulties.

Mrs. Robert Parker, who has owned the service with her husband for four years, said there were $5,000 to $6,000 due them in accounts receivable.

Delay in payment of bills has made it impossible to pay off obligations, she said. The Parkers will continue trying to collect money due to pay off their debts.

They will continue to operate under a county contract taking sheriff's office commitments to mental hospitals until June 30 when the contract expires.

Hit-Run Driver Batters Larkspur Citizen On Street

John D. Hooper, 36, walking home from a meeting at Larkspur City Hall last night, was struck by a hit-run car as he steped off the curb to cross Williams Street at Magnolia Avenue.

Larkspur police said Hooper, who lives at 214 Magnolia Avenue, was able to give no description of the auto that hit him about 10:25 p.m. the only clue was an 18-foot skid mark showing a car slid on a right turn and banged into the curb.

The tire mark indicated the auto was headed north on Magnolia and turning east into Williams Street.

After emergency treatment at Marin General Hospital, Hooper was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco for bruises over much of his body.

Pilot's Body Is Recovered; Crash Probed

The body of a 23-year-old pilot whose jet plane crashed off St. Vincent's Hill at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday was found at 4:19 p.m. yesterday just south of the Hamilton Air Force Base runway.

Location of the body north of the plane, which crashed as it headed for the air base, raised the possibility the jet had circled Marin County without a pilot.

The 4C Skyhawk plane, piloted by Lt. (J.G.) Rosolino J. Territo of the Lemoore Naval Air Station in San Joaquin County, burned in the crash.

The pilot's body was found nearly two miles from the plane wreckage and not in the line of the crashed plane, according to Lt. Cmdr. Raymond Sinwell, information officer at Alameda Naval Air Station.

At first it was thought the pilot had gone down with his plane. When neither his body nor seat was found in the burned wreckage, a search was made of the bay.

It was spotted by a Goast Guard helicopter and recovered by a ground crew from Western Air Rescue at Hamilton.

The parachute had streamed out, but failed to open, according to Western Air Rescue. The body was still in the ejection seat. It had been covered by water during the day and was revealed at low tide.

"The Navy will certainly investigate whether the plane had made three quarters of a circle over Marin County between the time the pilot ejected and the plane crashed," Sinwell said.

He said that the Navy would also investigate the malfunction of the parachute.

The fatal plane was one of two from Lemoore making a practice radar approach to the Hamilton runway. The other plane, piloted by Lt. Harold D. Barnhart, made a safe landing after losing radio contact with Territo's plane.

else might have to step in."

That someone else, the speaker said, would be the Board of Regents. He indicated that the regents might bring onto the campus a "strong man" to clean up the situation. This, in turn, he said, would "lead to mass resignations."

The two legislative leaders made their statements during their weekly news conference at the State Capitol.

Burns read to the newsmen a leaflet distributed on the campus which listed places where marijuana was not harmful, nor was it habit forming.

"There is no discipline at U.C. They are running loose there," he said.

Burns seemed particularly angry over the recent "filthy speech" demonstrations on the campus.

The senator also was critical of Kerr "for announcing his resignation to the press rather than through the board of regents. It implies that maybe he's not serious and wants to be brought back. Maybe he wants to stop being the university president just as I want to stop being a state senator."

of the initial series of American air attacks across the 17th parallel to bring Hanoi to terms has made it imperative for President Johnson to intensify pressure.

At the same time it was reported the U.S. is likely to send more ground force units to South Viet Nam to join the two Marine battalions just disembarked there.

This information coincides with a reported substantial buildup in North Vietnamese regular army battalions now fighting alongside Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Poor School Bus Service To Tam Hit

Poor bus service, inexperienced drivers and lack of communication for students going from Bolinas and Stinson Beach to Tamalpais High School is causing students to miss school and be given unexcused absences, according to Bolinas-Stinson Union School District trustees.

The trustees last night requested Superintendent - Principal Peter M. Auer to so advise Tamalpais High School District trustees.

There have been frequent bus break-downs, sometimes holding a student up two hours, reported Mrs. Harry Phillips, board chairman. Most recent was Tuesday when a bus got stuck in the mud on Bolinas Mesa, causing students to be about an hour and one-half late, she said.

The Bolinas-Stinson school district trustees also:

1. Approved a 1965-66 teacher salary schedule of $5,250 to $9,950. The 1964-65 schedule is $5,000 to $8,652. This brings the schedule, for the first time, to an average level of elementary districts within the Tamalpais High School District, said Mrs. Phillips.

2. Discussed accelerating the school building program "because of the threat of unification." No action was taken. The board is on record favoring a smaller unified district than the proposed Tamalpais High School District unification.

3. Agreed to meet next on April 7, instead of April 14, at Bolinas School because of Easter vacation.

Young Hellman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland D. Hellman of 32 Manderly Road and a senior at San Rafael High School, was elected mayor for Youth in Government Day by the high school student forum yesterday.

Elected as city councilmen for the day were Christopher Dlugokensi, senior; Sharon Dixon, junior; Carl Graham, sophomore, and Paul Vanderbilt, freshman.

City attorney will be Sue Aaron, whose mother, Mrs. Bella H. Aaron, is both an attorney and a member of the San Rafael Board of Education.

Appointive city positions will be decided by the elected officers.

"Youth in Government Day" is a project of the Kiwanis Club, in which students "stand in" for city officials for one day to learn something about the workings of municipal government.

Ex-Felons Flushed From Stolen Auto

Two armed ex-convicts, suspected of taking a Novato airman's car yesterday, got as far as San Francisco before their luck ran out.

There, luck left them with a rush.

San Francisco police said Jerry Remo, 28, and Harold C. Wasley, 30, were stopped after they ran a red light on Market Street and made an illegal left turn onto Franklin Street.

Police wanted to know why there was no ignition key in the car. The men were unable to explain that, and when officers asked for identification, the two men went overboard.

They had identification all right: several cards with several different names.

Officers, thoroughly suspicious by now, asked to examine the contents of a guitar case. Despite the protests of Remo and Wesley, police opened the case and found a sawed-off shotgun. Later they found a .22 caliber pistol under the front seat.

The car was stolen from A/3c Gregory Shaw, a resident of barracks at Hamilton Air Force Base. He told Novato police it was taken sometime between 3 and 7 p.m. yesterday while parked at the Sundown Center outside the base.

Novato police said it was Shaw's car, even though the license plates had been changed.

San Francisco police said Remo has served time for narcotics conviction in Illinois and Wasley had been in San Quentin Prison for forgery. He also had a record of armed robbery and assault against a police officer.

The two were booked at City Jail on holds by the United States marshal for possession of an illegal shotgun and for Novato police for car theft. San Francisco police may also hold the men on a charge of being armed ex-convicts.

The men were to be questioned today regarding unsolved armed robberies in San Francisco.

The court reserved decision.

SPENCER'S A GIRL?

But All That Dishwater Ruins His Teamster Hands

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Spencer Furr is all man but legal records say he is a woman.

Furr has been married 13 years, served in the Army, drives for Queen City Trailways and chews on a fat black cigar. He was born Feb. 15, 1922 in Stanly County, N.C.

Or was he?

When he went into the Army in the early 1940s, he discovered that according to records he was a girl, born in 1923.

Furr believes the mistake was made by the doctor, who delivered him in 1922. The doctor, reasons Furr, probably forgot to send in the certificate for almost a year. When he did, he forgot whether he had delivered a boy or a girl.

He has compiled evidence of his masculinity and age — his mother's word, an old family Bible, school records indicating he started to school in 1928, and a 1930 census report stating he was an 8-year-old boy.

Furr said the mistake has been corrected in county records at Albemarle but not by the state, though he has a stack of letters several inches thick showing his efforts to straighten things out.

Increased State Harbor Funds Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Senate committee has recommended that the state small craft harbors revolving fund be increased $2 million annually to help finance new boating facilities.

The fund is financed through $2 million in boat fuel taxes. The Senate Natural Resources Committee yesterday estimated that the "true amount" of boat fuel taxes paid by water sportsmen was $4 million, with the excess $2 million going into the motor vehicle fund. The committee said this meant the added money was "being utilized in highway construction."

The committe, headed by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Monterey, said the extra small craft money could be used for financing harbors of refuge along the coast and for developing boating facilities at state water projects.

Students, Faculty Supporting Kerr

'Obscenity' Rallies Cause Resignations

BERKELEY (AP) — The dramatic resignations of University of California President Clark Kerr and Martin Meyerson, acting chancellor of the Berkeley campus, have rallied support for the top administrators of the restless college community.

Kerr, 53, head of the university's nine campuses, indicated Tuesday he had taken the "dramatic step" in response to recent "obscenity" rallies that he said perverted freedom into "license for hard core pornography."

OUTDOOR SESSIONS

The rallies on campus have been outdoor sessions in which a handful of students shouted obscene phrases and four-letter words and displayed obscene words on placards.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown said, "The four letter word was the last word in causing the resignations." But neither administrator has given a clear explanation of his action.

The Emergency Executive Committee of Berkeley's Academic Senate, a faculty group, said Tuesday night the administrators' resignations came at a time when the campus was "establishing sound and workable policies in the area of political expression.

GIVEN BACKING

"We are convinced," the statement added, "President Kerr and Chancellor Meyerson should be asked to continue in office."

The faculty of the university's medical school campus in San Francisco yesterday unanimously passed a resolution "urging the regents to refuse to accept your (Kerr's) proposed resignation."

The students' legislative body unanimously urged Meyerson to stay on and by a 13-6 vote asked the same of Kerr.

At UCLA the student legislative council urged Kerr to remain on the job and individual students began circulating petitions to the same end.

The San Francisco Examiner reported that some regents of the university—including chairman of the board Edward W. Carter of Los Angeles — had demanded immediate expulsion of students involved in the "obscenity" rallies.

Carter denied this.

Only three of the nine persons arrested as a result of the rallies were students. The 22-year-old non-student, John J. Thomson, who sat on campus with a sign on which was scrawled a single four-letter word, was to appear in court today for displaying obscene material.

The obscenity movement never attracted a large following.

The campus had been relatively peaceful since Meyerson, 42, took over from Edward W. Strong who took a leave of absence in early January following months of demonstrations on campus.

One sit-in in the administrative building in December resulted in the arrest of more than 700 students and sympathizers who challenged regulations against soliciting for funds and membership for off-campus activities such as civil rights groups.

Steve Weissman, a spokesman for this segment — the Free Speech Movement—accused the regents Tuesday of "tampering in the internal affairs of the campus," following the obscenity issue.

In their statements Tuesday Kerr and Meyerson said their resignations would become effective at the March 25-26 meeting of the regents in Berkeley.

Meyerson said he intends to resume his post as dean of the College of Environmental Design. He said he will offer to teach a course on the urban community for freshmen and sophomores.

Kerr has not indicated his plans.

The Worms Turn

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Louisiana's Capitol grounds could provide rich diggins for the birds. Leon Mitchell of Natchitoches, La., has planted one million worms on the grounds to enrich the soil. He said the population explosion would increase the number of worms to one billion by 1966—unless the birds find out.

Bus Driver Delivers Passengers To Police

NEW YORK (UPI)—A busload of rowdy teen-agers made an unscheduled non-stop trip from their high school classrooms to the squad room of a Bronx police station yesterday.

The driver, Stanley Pickowitz, was irked that someone had smashed the 8-by-5 foot rear window of his bus. He turned off the regular route to a police station where his 60 passengers were hauled before detectives. One boy was held.

LIBRARIAN? DOES MARIN HAVE ONE?

Twenty times, radio KTIM announcer John Caples has asked a question on his "Jackpot Quiz" program, and nobody has had the answer.

Each time, he adds a dollar to the jackpot, and next day calls another number from the telephone directory, chosen at random.

The question that 20 Marinites have been unable to answer: "Who is the county librarian?"

Ex-Candidate Sues Birchite Over Arrest

SANTA ANA (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, has been served with papers in a $2.5 million damage suit brought by Robert Battin, defeated State Senate candidate.

The suit alleges false arrest and conspiracy to commit false arrest. Welch, who was handed the papers during a speaking engagement at Santa Ana Valley High School auditorium, declined comment.

He was one of several defendants named by Battin. Others include State Sen. John Schmitz, R - Orange County; John LaMagna, who served on Schmitz' campaign staff; the Birch Society, and its public relations director, former Republican Congressman John Rousselot.

Battin, jailed two days before the election on the basis of LaMagna's citizen's arrest, contends the incident lost him the election. LaMagna had accused Battin of trying to run him down with a car, but Dist. Atty. Kenneth Williams dropped the charge, saying there was insufficient evidence.

Alto Firehouse Is Busy Place For 'Walk In Day'

It was "walk in day" yesterday at the Alto firehouse on Shell Road, Fire Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr. said today.

At 2:27 p.m. Mrs. Marian McDonaldson of 50 Shell Road took her nine-day-old baby, Christine, to the firehouse saying she had difficulty breathing after eating. Firemen gave the baby inhalation and called Dr. Carl E. Schlichtmann, who advised the baby be taken to hospital for a checkup.

At 3:55 p.m. a girl, whose name was not disclosed, ran to the firehouse to say a shed at the rear of Pierre Giacomino's house at 15 Meadow Drive was afire. Firemen doused the blaze, cause of which was undetermined. Damaged were the shed, a bicycle and many automotive parts.

A long record of no fires in Alto was broken with the shed fire. It had been 125 days since the station had a call of fire damage and 104 days since a house fire, Heynen reported.

Brown Testifies On Redistricting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Brown told a U.S. Senate subcommittee today he supports a "reasonable modification" of the U.S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" reapportionoent ruling.

But, the California chief executive said in a statement read for him, such a modification is desirable only if everyone qualified to vote can do so—clearly a reference to the South, where Negroes claim widespread denial of the right to vote.

Brown's statement was read to the Constitutiinal Amendments Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee by his top aide, Finance Director Hale Champion.

BROWN REPEATS BLAST AT UNRUH

Again Demands Investigation Of Charge That State Aide Mishandled Information

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The feud between California's two most powerful Democratic leaders—Gov. Brown and Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh—still smoldered today despite a plea for peace and party harmony.

An angry Brown, who earlier issued two biting statements against Unruh, has renewed his demand for a thorough investigation of a charge leveled against the Department of Finance.

The chief executive, snubbing Unruh's request that the current disagreement end, said:

"Since the speaker continues to decline to discuss the merits of the attack on the Department of Finance, I can well understand his desire to have the matter quietly dropped.

"It will be put behind us as soon as the questions raised by the attack have been answered by a thorough investigation by the district attorney of Sacramento County and not before."

The long-time dispute between Brown and Unruh was fanned into an open blaze this week. It started when Assemblyman James Mills, D - San Diego, charged that state officials may have committed a crime in reporting how the Public Health Department spent $32,000.

The press release ping - pong between Unruh and Brown started after Mills' fired his "criminal action" charge during an Assembly Ways and Means Committee hearing Monday.

The chief executive demanded Unruh take disciplinary action against Mills, who was appointed to his Rules Committee post by Brown.

Unruh returned this shot by charging Brown with poor communications between the executive and legislative branches. He suggested that Mills cancel his request for an investigation by the Sacramento County District attorney.

The governor accused the speaker of glossing over the real issues and making a mild "protestation at the sneak attack."

Unruh returned the shot with this statement:

"In the interest of party harmony and even more importantly for the good of the citizens of California, I urge the governor to consider the disagreement . . . at an end.

"Rather than reply further to the latest countercharge in this unfortunate sequence, I suggest that we all proceed to carry out our constitutional duties and get back to the business of the state."

Express Rate Hike Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The American Railway Express Co. has asked for a rate increase in California of 15 cents for each five pounds up to 100 pounds.

The company told the State Public Utilities Commission yesterday that its request would bring intra-state freight rates up to the level of inter-state rates granted by the Inter-state Commerce Commission.

The proposed increase would add about $48,000 a year to company revenues, American Express officials said.

Verdi Note Found

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet news agency Tass reported yesterday that a letter by the composer Guiseppe Verdi has been found in a public library in Leningrad. Tass said Verdi complained in the letter about distortions in his opera "Foscari" which was produced in Paris in the middle of the last century.

Indonesians Refuse Truce Parley Attempt

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The Malaysian Foreign Ministry announced today that quiet efforts by Thailand to bring Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman and Indonesian President Sukarno to the conference table have fallen through.

"No plausible reason has been given," the ministry said, "and so it can only be assumed that Indonesia is not prepared to stop her acts of aggression against Malaysia."

Muir Woods National Monument lies at the south foot of Mount Tamalpais, and contains 491 acres of federal land.

Bonn Resisting Israeli Demand

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany plans to stick to its decision not to resume arms shipments to Israel, a spokesman for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said today.

Israel reportedly is demanding that the Erhard government resume the shipments as a condition for establishing diplomatic relations with West Germany.

The Bonn government scoffed at a threat today by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic to cripple West German trade if Erhard recognizes the Israeli government.

Londoners Report Slum Conditions

Novatan Will Defend Bill For Tract School Acreage

William H. Kirk, Novato school trustee, today declared he will appear before a legislative committee in Sacramento next week to argue for his bill which would require subdividers to sell school land at their cost.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, who introduced the bill at Kirk's request, reported yesterday that Legislative Counsel George H. Murphy had held its constitutionality was in doubt. It might constitute taking private property for public use without just compensation, Murphy said.

Kirk contended his proposal would not do that since the developer would recover his costs and merely be denied a profit on the land sold for school sites.

Opposition to the measure was reported from the California Real Estate Assn., members of which are scheduled to discuss it during a conference next week end in Glendale.

The Point Reyes Peninsula is partially separated from the mainland by the 13 miles of Tomales Bay on the north and the two miles of Bolinas lagoon on the south.

Spanish Urged For Every Grade

Manuel Guerra, professor of foreign languages at University of Southern California, recommended to the Dixie School District board last night that Spanish be taught in every grade starting in September, 1966.

Guerra, who serves as foreign language consultant to the district, said a good start has been made in seventh and eighth grades and the district should have no difficulty meeting state requirements for a program in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades starting next September.

He recommended that the district begin teaching Spanish through music in kindergarten, first and second grades. He said a Spanish workshop for teachers should be held before the start of the next school year.

The board also received a recommendation for a summer workshop from Raymond Riley, principal of Miller Creek School, who reported on the pilot program of team teaching at the school.

Riley recommended a workshop for staff members to plan the team teaching program for the next school year.

The board postponed a request by Daryl Hopkins of the county schools office to locate the county's school for trainable mentally retarded adjacent to a proposed new school in the Dixie district. The county's school is now in old county farm buildings on Lucas Valley Road.

The board authorized hiring Mrs. Micki Letourneau as library clerk at Mary E. Silveira School to succeed Mrs. Winnifred Halligan, who resigned.

Alarm Net Complete

The Novato Fire District board accepted its new fire alarm system as complete and working, and made the final payment of $39,439 on it last night at its meeting in Fire Station No. 1. Gamewell Corp. of Palo Alto installed the system.

McAteer Appeals For End To Bay Area Provincialism

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SAN FRANCISCO—A call for Bay Area cooperation and an "end to provincialism" was sounded this morning by State Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco.

He was the keynote speaker at the third conference on the Future of the Bay Area being held by the Bay Area Council at the San Francisco Hilton Hotel. Some 400 leaders from nine Bay Area counties, including Marin, participated in the all-day conference.

McAteer emphasized that the Bay Area will have more than six million people by 1970. He said: "Think of yourselves as members of a region rather than a city. Provincialism that existed in the yesteryears must disappear."

He said one of the big problems is creation of new jobs for the increasing population. He also spoke of the need to conserve natural resources and solve the transportation problem.

Another speaker was Ransom Cook, chairman of the board of the Wells Fargo Bank, who discussed economic development.

The afternoon session was to include discussion groups on urban renewal, rapid transit, economic development and conservation.

Mrs. Margaret Azevedo of Tiburon chaired the conservation discussion. She is a Marin County planning commissioner, chairman of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and a former member of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission.

The discussion on economic development was headed by Rex T. Silvernale, president of the Marin County Development Assn.

Smoke Inhalation Kills Woman, 55

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 55-year-old San Francisco woman died today of smoke inhalation at her apartment.

The fair will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday. The 20 top winners will be invited to compete in the San Francisco Bay Area Science Fair April 4 to 7 in San Francisco.

The fair features exhibits selected at both public and private schools, made by students in seventh through 12th grades. Awards will be divided into the catagories of biological sciences, physical sciences and mathematics.

Firemen To Feed

Belvedere volunteer firemen will be host March 19 at the firehouse at their annual crab cioppino feed for all firemen in Marin. Food will be prepared by Mel Gillis, chef of the San Francisco Yacht Club.

Larkspur May Chop Down Obstructing Redwood Tree

One redwood tree that is making a nuisance of itself in Madrone Canyon may come down, the Larkspupr Park and Recreation Commission decided last night.

The commission, still acting under a council policy while a city tree ordinance is under study, held a hearing on a request by 24 residents of the area that the tree growing in the middle of the street at 33 Bridge Road be taken out.

Commissioners unanimously called for city council approval for the cutting after Harry B. Larsen of 33 Bridge Road said the roots are causing the street to buckle and school children must walk into the path of cars while going past.

Telephone Now Helps Kick Smoking Habit

CHICAGO (UPI)—The telephone company estimated today that in six days as many as 14,000 callers have dialed a number when they wake up in the morning to hear an authoritative voice tell them "don't smoke."

The anti-smoking recorded voice advises callers to take cold baths and drink plenty of water to help give up smoking.

Judge Tells State To Rehire Aide From San Rafael

Atty. General To Appeal Despite Blast From Court

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Judge Joseph Karesh of San Francisco Superior Court today ordered the State Department of Motor Vehicles to immediately reinstate Lester H. Hingsbergen of 32 Dellwood Court, San Rafael, as Northern California investigator.

His ruling also called for payment to Hingsbergen of his salary since an earlier reinstatement order, less what he has made meanwhile as a car salesman.

The state attorney general, however, at once filed notice of intention to appeal the ruling.

Judge Karesh's order followed a three-day hearing on his order for the state to show cause why it had not complied with a previous court ruling that Hingsbergen be reinstated.

In issuing it, he extolled the San Rafael man's 32-year record in the motor vehicle department.

Today's order was foreseen after the judge interrupted the hearing yesterday with a blast against the State Personnel Board. He said he did not want to see "the secretary of some state agency pick up the phone and destroy a man."

Near the close of the session, Judge Karesh burst out:

"They fired him three times, didn't they? And for what? He sold raffle tickets. He got cars at most for friends with no profit for himself. Is that the type of act for which he should be fired with all the attending disgrace?"

The judge said that he was a prosecutor for 12 years and had seen real crimes. "I just can't believe these type of offenses warrant this type of punishment. What has Mr. Hingsbergen done that would warrant his being fired three times? I just don't understand."

Hingsbergen was fired in 1963 after he refused to answer questions about other employees in a department scandal. Later he was charged with getting cars for cost for friends, selling raffle tickets and having employees run personal errands on state time.

Judge Karesh, in his ruling last year, said Hingsbergen had not "abused his position."

Attorney James Martin MacInnis represented Hingsbergen.

Ridge Annex May Be Shared Among Cities

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission suggested today that perhaps part of the proposed 206-acre Mill Valley north ridge annexation should be annexed instead to Larkspur and Corte Madera.

The commission postponed action on Mill Valley's petition to annex the area until April 8. Chairman Bert W. Broemmel asked that officials of the three cities meantime get together and work out acceptable boundaries.

The area sought to be annexed to Mill Valley runs up the ridge to the Larkspur and Corte Madera city lines. It is largely in the Mill Valley watershed, but portions extend to land that drains to the Twin Cities.

John F. Barrows, executive officer of the commission, said Larkspur or Corte Madera might be more logical than Mill Valley to provide services to parts of the acreage. For example, the main access road to one sector is in Corte Madera, he noted.

Ronald E. Piper, Larkspur city manager, said officials of his city did not think the proposed ridge top boundary a reasonable one.

The area, steep and uninhabited, is in 17 ownerships. It now constitutes an unincorporated "island" bordered by the three cities.

Commissioner H. G. Marchant was absent.

February Jobs At Record High

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Despite continuing cutbacks in the aerospace industry, February employment in California hit a record high for the month, the State Department of Employment reported today.

Civilian employment totaled 6.6 million in February, up 177,000 or 2.8 per cent over the same month last year.

There were 26,000 fewer workers in aerospace firms than in the previous February. But this loss was more than offset by increased employment in services, government and trade.

Unemployment fell to 488,000 in February from 520,000 in January, the department reported.

Stratton Innocent In Illinois Tax Case

CHICAGO (UPI) — A U.S. district court jury today found former Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton innocent of charges of evading $46,676 in income taxes.

Cheers broke out in the courtroom when the jury of six men and six women announced the verdict.

Sheriff's Deputies Probing Five Burglaries In County

Five scattered burglaries, including break-ins of two neighboring summer residences on Horseshoe Hill near Bolinas, were reported today by sheriff's deputies.

Officers said the Bolinas houses of Rhonda D. Boyd, 77 Marguerite Avenue, Mill Valley, and of Charles Koch, Berkeley, were both ransacked during the past few days. Liquor was taken in each burglary, they said, and a dozen eggs—taken from a refrigerator—were smashed on the kitchen floor of the Boyd house.

Both entries were by prying windows.

Armando Navas, 216 Reed Boulevard, Strawberry, told officers the home that he and William Edward Nadalini share was entered Tuesday by forcing a front door and night safety chain. Taken, he said, were a television set, a radio, two small statues, a typewriter, a film projector, two rifles and clothing.

Total value estimate was not given. Navas told deputies he discovered the burglary on returning from work.

Mrs. David P. Geoffrion, 1359 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow, told officers her home was entered via an unlocked patio door, also Tuesday, and a bedroom ransacked. Nothing was believed to have been taken.

A television set, value undetermined, was stolen from the home of Martin M. Titcomb, 20 Burgess Court, Marin City, officers said. Titcomb said entry was by a west bedroom door Tuesday.

Driver Fined $220

Vernon Hubert Brackett, 48, of House 104, Marin City, was fined $220 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. He was arrested by California Highway Patrol on Feb. 25.

Water Works District Opposed For Nicasio

Marin Municipal Water District directors last night voted to oppose formation of a new waterworks district in Nicasio, then called for a joint meeting with directors of the North Marin Water District Monday to discuss serving just such places as Nicasio.

The board formally established a policy to oppose in the future formation of any new agencies to supply water in Marin County, and to encourage annexation to either of the two major existing districts, Marin Municipal and North Marin.

In the policy statement, the board went on to say the encouragement toward annexation should not include any costs on the part of the parent district. The cost of serving new areas should be borne entirely by the residents and property owners in those areas, it said.

Seeger said his office has made a rough estimate that service to Nicasio would cost between $300,000 and $500,000.

The meeting with the North Marin Board would also discuss several other issues, including the proposed formation of a sanitation district in San Geronimo Valley, service to the area of Hamilton Air Force Base and membership in the Eel River Assn. Time and location of the joint meeting was not set.

The Marin Municipal Water Dist. Board Also:

1. Approved purchase of the annual supply of steel pipe from the Southern Pipe and Casing Co., Los Angeles, lower of two bidders, for $116,204.40.
2. Approved a contract for installation of a new pipeline along Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael, required by state highway work, to Linscott Equipment Co., San Rafael, lowest of six bidders, at $24,251.25.
3. Purchased the year's supply of copper fittings from Mueller Co., San Francisco, for $5,115.87.
4. Approved a contract by purchase order for the Von Rotz Construction Co., Fairfax, to build a pumping house on Sugar Loaf Hill for $2,767.
5. Agreed to supply surplus water to the Valley Vaqueros stables near Marinwood but outside the district, for watering about 30 horses.
6. Agreed to send Seeger and one director to the American Water Works Assn. conference in Portland, Ore.

Twenty-three people were convicted of income tax evasion, resulting in some prison terms, fines of $46,250 and recommended civil recovery of $2.8 million. Those convicted included attorneys, accountants and a policeman.

Club Wires LBJ On Civil Rights

Homestead Valley Improvement Club directors last night agreed to wire president Lyndon B. Johnson urging him to take necessary federal action to protect the lives of American citizens in Alabama who are attempting to exercise rights to which they are entitled to under the constitution.

The board discussed Tamalpais Union High School District unification, to be voted upon April 20, but took no action. "We may try to hold a meeting on unification with speakers for both sides," said president Bernard M. Weinstein.

The club made Brown's Hall facilities available to the Valley to be sponsored by the club and Homestead Players for children ages four to 13.

Marinites Tell Their Tales Of Mississippi

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One chair was left empty last night on stage at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, except for a banjo and a sign, "Gone to Miss., with love."

All other chairs in the hall were filled and people stood to hear civil rights work reports from two carpenters, two lawyears, a student and a minister.

"Chris Bratt is in West Point, Miss.," said chairman Martin J. Rosen, "to do a job of laying out church construction. The banjo belongs to carpenter Bratt, and is the best banjo this side of the Mississippi."

First to speak was Karen Duncan, attractive San Francisco State College sophomore, formerly of Novato and now of Mill Valley. She spent last summer in Mississippi, working much of the time as Freedom School teacher near Canton. She left briefly to attend the Democratic convention in Atlantic City where she worked with others to try to gain recognition of Freedom Democratic Party delegates from Mississippi.

"I have not been arrested so I'm not a typical civil rights worker," she said.

She said Rep. Donald H. Clausen, who represents California's First District, told her, "I don't have anything to do with Mississippi." Clausen voted against a challenge to seating of five Mississippi congressmen elected in November. "If you want to do something, get on Don Clausen's back, said Miss Duncan.

Carpenter Othel Mallouf, partner of Bratt in Little Gem Construction Co. in Homestead, told how he and four other carpenters drove in a truck to Jackson, Miss., in 46 hours to help rebuild a church. He said while a lot of whites in Mississippi are "really sympathetic," they are also afraid.

"A lot of people ask, why did I go to Mississippi?" he said. "One reason is to give a little moral support, another to let Negro people there have courage to carry this on and let them know all white people aren't the same."

Attorney Robert D. Carrow, mayor of Novato, explained his work taking depositions relating to denial of the vote to Mississippi Negroes for the attempt to bar the five congressmen.

He said he felt he and other attorneys accomplished something in a legal sense but, just as important, "there was a very marked effect in the Negro community."

"Some 70 additional votes are all that is needed" to join the 148 congressmen who voted to deny the seating," he said.

Philip Drath, San Rafael builder and a Quaker, said it was not just rebuilding churches that was important but "an attempt to bring about some reconciliation between white and Negro communities."

He said the Committee of Concern has received money from all over including 17 foreign countries, mostly from Africa, to rebuild bombed and burned-out churches. He said a third group of five carpenters left yesterday for Mississippi and many college students are assisting, including some from Millsap and "Ole Miss."

Attorney Benjamin B. Dreyfus of Mill Valley said he has just returned from Washington where he worked with congressmen and attorneys on the seating challenge.

He said his duty in Meridian, Miss., was to interview witnesses willing to testify in depositions. "It was a rich and rewarding experience," he said.

"What we read about Selma looks as if those who went to Mississippi took the easy way," Dreyfus commented.

Rev. Jack Bartlett, associate minister of Mill Valley Community Church, told of experiences in January in Hattiesburg, Miss., where he worked with Negro and white clergymen. With the latter, he said, "the situation was quite hopeless." He said he was asked to leave a citizens council meeting in the courthouse, then kicked and struck in the street.

"A great tragedy is these people have to spend the great value they have as humans to get rights that we take for granter," said Rev. Bartlett.

Volunteers Again To Tell Of Mississippi Happenings

Marin County citizens' efforts to assist civil rights movements in the South will be reported by the volunteers themselves at a "Marin in Mississippi" program at 2 p.m. Sunday in Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Speakers will include Novato attorneys Robert D. Carrow and Joseph Forest, who were members of a legal task force taking evidence on voters' rights violations; City Councilman Melvin S. Wax of Sausalito; San Rafael carpenter Philip Drath, who helped rebuild burned churches in Mississippi, and Rev. Jack Bartlett, associated pastor of the Mill Valley Community Church. Alvin Goldstein of San Anselmo will be chairman.

Five members of "The Committee" will also present a half-hour of entertainment.

Sponsors for the program are the Marin Friends of SNCC (Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee). Tickets may be reserved through the organization's headquarters at the Marin County Heliport or purchased at the door on Sunday. The sponsors also have asked those attending to take canned food to be sent to rural Mississippi.

State Voting Law Agreement Reached

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Senate leaders from both parties agreed today that new civil rights legislation should guarantee voting rights in state elections as well as federal voting.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., indicated the agreement after meeting with Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach on a compromise bill that might attract sufficient backing to get through Congress quickly.

Marin Minister Going To Selma

Rev. Karel F. Botermans and 16 other Bay Area Unitarian ministers will fly to Selma, Ala., Saturday to join the march for Negro voting rights.

Botermans, minister of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin, said the Bay Area ministers are going partly in response to a plea last night by Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike for "wave upon wave" of clergy. The response is also in part to an appeal by Rev. Martin Luther King. But mainly it is because the three ministers beaten in Selma this week were Unitarians.

Botermans said 100 per cent of the Unitarian ministers in the Bay Area have responded. He said most Northern California ministers of his church are expected to go, and probably many from Southern California.

Services in his church will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. as usual, but Rev. Botermans will not be there.

"There will be silent meditation for the success of the march," he said.

He will fly to Atlanta, Ga., Saturday, then fly to Birmingham, Ala., and go from there to Selma. The march will probably take place Sunday. Botermans hopes to be home Monday or Tuesday.

Two other Marin men already in Selma joined an all-night vigil in the streets for Rev. James Reeb of Boston, seriously injured when beaten Tuesday.

The Marin men are Conrad Knudsen, a seminary student at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, and Rev. Don Schilling, pastor of St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, Marin City.

"As long as we remain in the Negro sector we are relatively safe," Knudsen told his wife, Nancy, by telephone last night.

Both men hope to take part in a proposed march to Montgomery, Ala.

Boy, 11, Gives Himself A Scary Driving Lesson

An 11-year-old San Rafael boy gave himself a driving lesson Tuesday and in the process handed out several lessons in self-preservation to other motorists as he swerved through the streets.

The boy first came to police attention when he swerved toward the car of Mrs. Margaret M. Wilson of 114 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, as she drove down Belle Avenue near Grand Avenue. He stopped when Mrs. Wilson swerved into a utility pole guide wire. She asked him his name and told him to walk home. Then she phoned police.

But the boy kept driving west-on Belle Avenue. He narrowly missed another car, then hit fence at Coleman School.

He made it to busy Mission Avenue, where he negotiated several blocks unscratched. He was finally stopped on Laurel Place by an unidentified driver who took him home.

The boy's step-father later took him to the police station where the boy was given a citation for delinquency and released to his parents.

Police said the boy planned the "lesson" earlier in the day when he noticed the keys of the family car and put them in the glove compartment. When he came home from school he got in the car and took off.

Novato Car Backs Over Little Boy

A 19-month-old baby was hit by a car in the driveway of his grandparents home in Novato at 9:30 a.m. today, Novato police reported.

Scott Robert Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Martin of 5 Ormond Court, Novato, was hospitalized with multiple abrasions at Novato hospital.

The boy was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Van Gronigen of 1627 Center Road, when he ran behind the car of James Edward Welsh, 42, of 788 Story Book Court, Novato, according to police. Welsh told police that as he started to back up, he heard a thump and stopped immediately.

Highway Dividers To Cushion Shock

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A new type of steel highway dividers, made by the U.S. Steel Corp., will cushion the shock of auto collisions and prevent crossovers into oncoming traffic, according to the firm's engineers.

The new median barrier, made of hollow structural tubing supported by upright posts, was tested by Joie Chitwood, Jr., famous stunt driver.

Brown Seeking Poverty Funds

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today requested quick action on California's application for $3.4 million in federal anti-poverty funds.

In a telegram to Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, Brown said the funds are needed to establish a comprehensive migrant farm worker program.

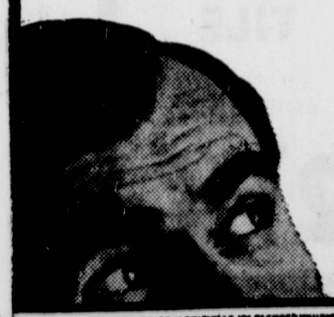

Citing migrant workers as the most impoverished of all people in California, the governor said the program also would aid the state in making the shift from foreign to domestic farm workers.

PROPOSED NOVATO SHOPPING COMPLEX

This Downtown Novato Shopping Center, a project of Hoytt Enterprises, is planned to occupy a 22-acre site at the southwest corner of Grant Avenue and Seventh Street. The first firm to lease space in the centers was Longs Drug Stores, Inc. of Oakland. Construction on the drug store will commence this spring and is expected to be completed this fall. Other units planned are a market, bank, restaurant and several specialty and service stores. Architects for the center are Hammarberg and Herman of Oakland.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Drug Store Due Loch Lomond; Brannan Opens Realtor Office

Loch Lomond Shopping Center will have a modern drug store about the middle of June.

Robert Cuneo of San Rafael, who has been with Greenbrae Pharmacy, and Fred Schalit of Daly City, who has been associated with Bowerman's Drugs, San Francisco, have leased 4,300 square feet and expect to be in business in another 90 days.

According to Fox and Carskadon who negotiated the lease, this, along with Rakestraw's Market (formerly Gary's), Tony's Barber Shop, Loch Lomond Laundry Cleaners and Clyde's of Barcelona beauty shop, just about fills up available space in the center. But there is one spot left with 1,700 square feet.

WILLIAM W. BRANNAN of San Rafael has opened a new real estate office at 801 D Street — to be known as William Brannan, Realtor. He has been with William Timmer's office for the past eight years. He is a member of the Marin County Real Estate Board and will work primarily on homes and lots.

CHARLES E. NEAL, vice president and general manager of Northwestern Pacific Railroad, has moved his office from San Rafael to Willits to be near the 100-mile Eel River canyon which suffered widespread devastation during the floods of Christmas week.

"In the canyon there are at least 30 miles of roadbed completely wiped out — just as if it had never existed," he said. "At some locations we can't even find the rails that were once there. We'll simply have to carve out a new roadway, because the river has changed the topography of the area."

Although trains are now moving along some parts of the road, Neal is a little wary about forecasting when everything will be back in operation. He's hopeful it will be by June, but admits there may be some weather yet which will delay reconstruction in the canyon — already complicated by the difficulty of getting in men and equipment to do the work.

W. M. (MONT) HEARON of Loch Lomond has been featured on the cover and in an inside article of Chemical and Engineering News. He will receive the Honor Award of Commercial Chemical Development Assn. for 1965 next week for his work in connection with the commercial development and production of levaninic acid, dimethyl sulfide and dimethyl sulfoxide by Crown Zellerbach Corp., of which he is vice president for research and development.

He also serves on advisory councils of the University of California and University of Washington, holds 26 patents in 11 countries, has two more pending and is author or co-author of 24 technical articles.

IN THE DIVISION of fuel chemistry, Glenwood resident Richard M. Curtis of the Shell Development Co. research center in Emeryville is co-author of a scientific paper to be read next month at the national meeting of the American Chemical Society in Detroit.

INSURANCE BROKER Jerome P. Stern has moved his offices from 2020 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to the Mission-Union Building of Dreyer, Wilson and Co.

INSURANCE MEN. Frederick J. Santos of Sleepy Hollow, with the San Francisco office of Bankers Life Nebraska, has won membership in his company's "Wall of Fame" for 1965 — one of 24 of Bankers Life's 500 or more representatives to make it. . . . Al Re of Fairfax, who used to be known for having the shortest name in Marin County, has made the top 15 per cent of State Farm producers in the country.

THRIFTY DRUG STORES in the Montecito Shopping Center, San Rafael, and Corte Madera Shopping Center are in the middle of their annual "Thrifty Week" sale, running through next Tuesday.

Earnings Best In Nine Years

NEW YORK—Rheem Manufacturing Co.'s earnings in 1964 were the best in nine years, according to the annual report sent to shareholders.

Net income was $5,515,563, compared with $4,142,655 in 1963. Net earnings per share of common stock were $2.72 for 1964, a 33⅓ per cent increase over 1963's $2.04, A. Lightfoot Walker, president, noted in the report.

Net sales during 1964 increased to $119,202,763 from $116,965,757 the year earlier. These figures do not include 1964 sales of about $103 million by Rheem subsidiaries and affiliates aboard, a 14.4 per cent increase over 1963's $90 million.

WIDOW, WIDOWER SOMETIMES CAN USE A JOINT RETURN

(From the California Society of Certified Public Accountants)

In some situations it's possible for the two years following the death of your spouse to continue to have the tax advantage of a joint return. However, the widow or widower must:

1. Have not remarried.
2. Maintain a household which is the principal place of abode of a child or stepchild who is also a dependent.
3. The widower or widow must have been entitled to a joint return with her husband (or wife) for the year of death.

The survivor under this provision will not, however, be able to claim the decedent as an exemption in the two years following the death.

Oil Company Earnings Up

CHICAGO — Earnings of the Pure Oil Co. in 1964 were $31,518,000, or $3.17 per share of common stock, as compared with $29,767,000, or $3.02 a share, in 1963.

The 1964 income includes $3.6 million brought about by changes in accounting.

Total income was $744,788,000, an increase of 1.6 per cent over the previous year, and highest in the company's history.

The year was marked by a record total production of hydrocarbons—31 million barrels of crude oil and liquids, up 3.5 per cent, and 117,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas, a gain of 13.8 per cent.

Quarterly Dividend

NEW YORK—The board of directors of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. has declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share on shares of capital (common) stock, payable on April 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business on March 18.

Medical Expense Can Be Deducted

(From the California Society of Certified Public Accountants)

Medical expenses which you pay for your immediate family and for persons who qualify as dependents for tax purposes are in general deductible to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of adjusted gross income. There are two exceptions to this which are interesting.

You may also include as medical expense amounts paid for a person for whom you are providing over one-half the support (say your married daughter who is still in school) who does not qualify as an exemption because of filing a joint return. In such a case, pay the medical bills directly rather than having your daughter pay them out of an allowance. The same strategy applies where you furnish over one-half the support of a parent of yours or your spouse who is 65 or older but doesn't qualify as an exemption.

Scott Paper Meeting Set

PHILADELPHIA—Scott Paper Co. announced it will hold its annual meeting of shareholders April 20 at the company's Everett, Wash., plant. The meeting will be the first held away from corporate headquarters in Pennsylvania.

Thomas B. McCabe, chairman, said the board of directors elected to hold the meeting in the northwest because of the large number of Scott shareholders residing in the area.

The Everett plant is one of the largest of the company's 11 manufactoring installations in the United States. It includes a paper mill with four paper machines and related converting equipment and a large sulphite pulp mill.

Dividend Declared

NEW YORK—The board of directors of Interchemical Corp. has declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.12½ per share on the outstanding preferred stock, payable May 1 to holders of record April 19.

FROM THIS CRASH, ONLY NOSE CUTS

Lillian E. Burbank, 66, of Petaluma was thrown out of car at left in this collision at Highway 101 and Lamont Avenue, Novato, at 7:25 p.m. yesterday, but was reported in good condition today in Novato General Hospital with nose cuts her principal injury. She was northbound on the highway when car at right, driven by Robert G. Tenby, 49, of 9 Peninsula Road, Belvedere, struck her auto. Tenby was cited by the California Highway Patrol for failure to yield right-of-way. Intersection has been scene of many accidents, and a stop sign was recently installed on Lamont Ave. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

Ex-Wife Clears Up Phony Span Leap

A puzzle over a suicide note and an abandoned car which had Marin law officers scratching their heads seven months ago was solved yesterday by some determined detective work by Mrs. Jean Jenkins of Bryte, Yolo County.

A car owned by Mrs. Jenkins' ex-husband, Leonard M. Jenkins, was found with a suicide note inside at Vista Point parking area near the Golden Gate Bridge July 23 last year.

At about the same time, Mrs. Jenkins received a letter from her ex-husband stating he was "going to end it all on the Golden Gate Bridge . . . I am taking Harold with me." Harold is the couple's 4-year-old son.

But the note in the car didn't mention Harold. Sgt. James Shanahan of the California Highway Patrol in Marin noted that although a Richmond Oil credit card was left behind by Jenkins, a Shell credit card he had used was not in the car.

This, combined with the fact that Jenkins had expressed a desire to go to Mexico and be a beachcomber, caused Shanahan to doubt he was a suicide.

Yesterday Jenkins walked into the Missing Persons Bureau in San Francisco and identified himself.

His appearance was the result of a hunch by Mrs. Jenkins which led her to set up her own private "stake-out" near the home of Jenkins' first ex-wife, Jane, in San Francisco.

Last Friday the hunch paid off when Jane Jenkins appeared with 4-year-old Harold. Jean Jenkins walked over and took her child.

When he appeared yesterday, Jenkins told police he was working in San Francisco for a wholesale furniture house. He refused to say what he and the boy had been doing for the past several months. They disappeared at the end of a period of 30 days in which Jenkins had custody of the boy.

Seven months ago Jenkins' father, Ray M. Jenkins of Stockton, told police his son told him of winning $1,200 in a Lake Tahoe casino, just before he disappeared.

"The boy and I have lived well," Jenkins said cryptically yesterday.

Crash Hospitalizes Novato Motorist

A Novato woman was hospitalized with injuries suffered in a two-car accident last night on Novato Boulevard near Simmons Lane.

Mrs. Helen Aileen Hughes, 47, of 101 San Carlos Way, was in good condition today at Hamilton Tir Force Base Hospital, with cuts on head and face.

Mrs. Hughes' car collided with one driven by Ruben Alvillar, 49, of 34 San Benito Way, Novato, at 7:05 p.m. as both were eastbound, Novato police reported.

Union Voting Probed Slated

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Tellers trying to determine who won the United Steelworkers Union (USW) presidential election will begin "investigations in the field" Monday, it was learned today. The union, meanwhile, continued contract talks with the basic steel industry.

Wayne Antrim of Hammond, Ind., chairman of the three-member USW international teller committee, said the field investigations would cover the many protests that have been filed since the Feb. 9 election.

He said the tellers would launch their investigation in Philadelphia on Monday, then go to Boston and Buffalo, then return to Pittsburgh. Following these stops the tellers will begin investigations in the Southwest and West.

One union source said that more than 300 protests had been filed for various reasons and that each one must be considered before an official vote count can be announced.

The Civic Center in Marin County was designed by Frank Lloyd Wright as his last major commission.

Underworld Again Linked To Recent Bank Failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph W. Barr testified today dishonest and unsound practices and infiltration by unsavory characters figured in most recent bank failures.

Barr is chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which insures up to $10,000 the individual deposits in national banks and many others.

He gave his testimony before the Senate Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark. That group heard charges by other officials yesterday that front men for crooked operators had seized control and milked the assets of two closed national banks in Marlin, Tex. and Brighton, Colo.

Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon, who joined two top aides in these charges, also blamed dishonest practices by the president of the San Francisco National Bank for its failure last January.

Barr refrained from mentioning names in a prepared statement. He said 13 insured banks have failed since 1962, including seven last year and four in 1965.

The subcommittee heard testimony Wednesday from Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon and two of his top aides that:

—Mobsters from the Chicago underworld, acting through a front man, may have been the ones they said milked assets of the Brighton, Colo., National Bank until it failed last year. They said counterfeit securities and forged notes figured in the deals.

—Alleged "fast buck operators" similarly bought through a false front a controlling interest in the long-established family owned First National Bank of Marlin, Tex., and brought it to failure through a long-planned mortgage deal on which they made $189,186.

GOP Risks Seats In Dixie To Woo More Negro Voters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican leaders gambled recent GOP gains in the South today in an opening bid to recapture the party's normal share of the Negro vote.

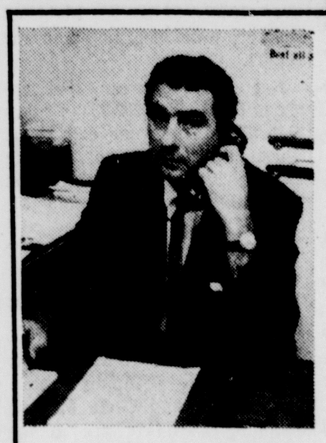

With support from party leaders outside Congress, GOP leaders in the Capitol were attempting to seize the leadership in the drive for a new law to protect Negro voting rights.

They recognized, however, that passage of a bill would depend on support from a coalition of Republicans and northern Democrats, just as the 1964 civil rights law was passed.

A three-page statement issued after the first meeting of the new Republican Coordinating Committee yesterday dealt with only two issues—civil rights and foreign policy. Twenty-one of the 26 members attended, including the entire 11-man congressional leadership group, two former presidential candidates, four governors and four members of the GOP National Committee.

With one eye on Selma, Ala., the Republicans said:

"We urgently favor federal action to assure all citizens of the United States of their constitutional rights without discrimination on account of race or color. The goal of the Republican party is that by the 1966 elections every American citizen shall be assured of his constitutional right to vote."

Another Ex-Mate Blasts Giants

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —Like ex - Giant pitcher Billy O'Dell, Jose Cardenal is critical of the work habits of his former San Francisco teammates.

"Nobody was working together with the Giants," said Los Angeles Angel outfielder Cardenal here today. And if you are not working together, you are never going to win the championship."

Cardenal spent four springs with San Francisco before being traded to the Angels for catcher Jack Hiatt last winter.

"It is different here," said the 21-year-old Cuban. "Everybody working together. This is a good ball club. I like it."

O'Dell recently charged that some members of the Giants didn't give a 100 per cent effort for manager Alvin Dark. Cardenal, who batted .289 for Tacoma last year, claims he never got a chance with San Francisco.

"I hit .350 or .365 every spring for them," the centerfielder said, "But they tell me I'm too young and send me down.

"A couple of years ago I asked Willie Mays how much longer he was going to play. He said six or seven more years. He told me: 'You better move, boy.' I was never happy with the Giants."

Cardenal is vying for the Angels' centerfield post along with Albie Pearson, bonus-baby Rick Reichardt and Dick Simpson.

The club's two squads held their final combined workout Wednesday. One squad leaves tonight for a ten-day tour of Mexico. Young outfielder Jack Warner highlighted the day's drills by slamming a 450-foot homer over the centerfield scoreboard.

Hiller In Precarious Position: Giants May Have To Trade Him

HANLEY

PHOENIX — Chuck Hiller knows that room on the 1965 roster of the Giants will be at a premium. He knows, too, that he could become one of the expendables because of the limited roster room. However, he is conceding nothing at this stage of spring practice.

When a reporter pointed out the precarious position he is in, Hiller withheld comment but the grimace that gripped his face seemed to say: "Why bring up what is painfully obvious to me?"

Roster room will be tight this year because the Giants have seven first-year players. They would like to protect all of them from the first-year draft rule but that's impossible. Under the new draft rule, one rookie may be farmed out without counting against the big club's 25-player limit. The Giants probably will protect two others by carrying them on the roster. Thus, for practical purposes the Giants will be playing with 23 men this year.

Of the 23, a minimum of 10 must be pitchers. That leaves 13 spots, a minimum of two to be filled by catchers. And that leaves 11 berths for the outfield and infield. It's a mighty tight squeeze—perhaps too tight for Hiller to make it.

IT WON'T be the end of the world for Hiller if he doesn't make it. He could play regularly for several other clubs. The circumstances of the tight roster and the fact that Hal Lanier now is definitely the Giant second baseman could influence a trade involving Hiller.

But, all things being equal, Hiller would prefer to remain with the Giants. His most depressing and most exhilirating moments have been with the Giants. In other words, he has lived with them.

HILLER WAS a cocky young rookie in 1961 and when he hit .400 in Arizona's light air that spring, he thought he had it made. He learned humility from National League pitchers who chopped his batting average down to .238 and sent him back to Tacoma.

He began hitting again at Tacoma and finished the 1961 season with a .324 mark in the Coast League. So in 1962 he got another chance with the big club and this time he was assured the second base job because there was no other candidate. And he made the most of his opportunity, winding up a .276 season with his memorable grand slammer in the World Series, the first time a National Leaguer ever did that.

The future looked brighter than ever for Hiller at the start of the 1963 season but in midseason Jim Ray Hart came up and the rookie shoved Jim Davenport off third, and, Davenport in turn, shoved Hiller off second.

LAST YEAR was a miserable one for Hiller because another rookie, this time Lanier, appeared in mid-season to make a utility hand out of Davenport. So what did that make Hiller? Actually, he became an understudy's understudy and, as such, didn't see much action. He appeared in only 80 games and hit a deplorable .180.

Everything comes easier for a ball player when he is playing every day. But even if he does make the tight Giant roster this year, Hiller has no chance of playing every day with Lanier and Davenport ahead of him. For his own good he might be better off with a club that would be playing him every day.

Cousy's Cagers Open NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Cousy and his Boston College basketball players would like to hold a farewell party for Joe Lapchick tonight. The only problem is they're not certain Lapchick will be a willing guest.

Boston College (21-6) takes on Lapchick's St. John's (17-8) team in the second game of the opening doubleheader of the National Invitation Tournament. Manhattan (12-8) plays Texas Western (18-8) in the first game.

Lapchick is retiring this year after 20 seasons at St. John's.

In 11 previous tournament appearances Lapchick's teams have won three titles, the most for any school except defending champion Bradley which also has won three times.

Doubleheaders Saturday afternoon — Fordham vs. Western Kentucky and St. Louis vs. Army — and Saturday night — Detroit-LaSalle and Bradley-New York U. — will complete first round play. Villanova and New Mexico, the top seeded teams, get into action in Monday night's quarter-finals.

Marin Tars Lose To City College

City College of San Francisco took advantage of three College of Marin errors to score two unearned runs and nip the Tars 2-1 yesterday in their non-conference baseball encounter at San Francisco's Balboa Park.

It was a tough loss for Tar pitcher Jim Timmell, a freshman righthander from Terra Linda who went the distance, allowing seven hits while striking out nine and walking four. He threw only 101 pitches in eight innings.

Marin managed five hits, including doubles by Timmell, Frank Dittle and Fred Mack and singles by Denny Thorne and Bill Brody. Timmell scored Marin's only run in the sixth frame, coming in on Stephen Garroway's sacrifice fly.

Marin plays a double-header at Menlo College Saturday.

DONS AND UCLA TEST NCAA PLAYOFF COURT

PROVO, Utah (UPI)—UCLA, San Francisco and Oklahoma City tested the court in two-hour workouts today for the Far West regional NCAA basketball tournament tomorrow and Saturday.

The fourth team, hometown Brigham Young University, also took to the boards in the George Albert Smith fieldhouse, but the Cougars have had an undefeated home season to get familiar with the arena.

The tournament begins with Oklahoma City, winner in the Lubbock, Tex., playoffs Monday, paired against West Coast Athletic conference champion San Francisco.

The second game matches Pacific Athletic Conference kingpin UCLA, defending its NCAA crown, against BYU, the Western Athletic Conference champion.

The losers meet in the first game Saturday, and the winners tip off in the second game, with the prize a trip to the NCAA finals at Portland, Ore. (Saturday's finals will be televised by KTVU, Channel 2, at approximately 8 p.m.)

UCLA brings the best record to the tournament of the four teams—24-2 for the season. The losses were to Illinois, 110-83 and to Iowa, 87-82.

BYU is 21-5 for the season, with defeats at the hands of Wichita, 93-76 and 81-65, DePaul, 84-75; Arizona 75-73, and New Mexico 89-70. All those games were on the road.

The tortuous question for BYU coach Stan Watts was the injured ankle of his key man —center John Fairchild. The 6-7 center from Encitas, Calif., sprained his ankle last week, but was off the crutches for practice Tuesday and Wednesday.

San Francisco has a 23-4 record for the season, with road losses to Tulsa, Arizona, University of Pacific, and Santa Clara. Oklahoma is the longshot with a 20-9 season mark.

The Chieftans also are shortmanned. Seven-foot center Eddie Jackson was graduated at midterm and Dick Bagby and sub Gary Hape have been declared ineligible.

Tickets for the tournament in the 11,000 capacity fieldhouse have been sold out for several weeks, as were most BYU games during the season. The campus and surrounding college town of Provo have been in a fever of activity for the past few days in preparation for the biggest basektball event ever to be brought here.

GIANTS IN TRAINING

Cepeda Looks Great, But McCovey Is Still Aching

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Orlando Cepeda feels great but Willie McCovey doesn't as the San Francisco Giants open the Phoenix phase of their spring today.

First baseman Cepeda tested his repaired right knee on yesterday before the squad broke camp at nearby Casa Grande. He termed it "very good" and proved his point with a 400-foot drive over the fence in left-center.

While Orlando was happy, his power hitting counterpart, McCovey, still had aching feet. The ailment goes back to last season when big Willie slumped.

"It started with a bone bruise on my left heel," he explains. "It still bothers me and the metatarsal arch has been damaged. I guess there is nothing that can be done about it. So I guess I'll just have to tough it out."

McCovey has been working out in basketball shoes and said, "I had some special baseball shoes ordered but they didn't fit."

He's now awaiting another pair.

When Dr. Harrison McLaughlin operated on Cepeda's knee to remove damaged cartilage last Dec. 7, the surgeon said it should be as good as new.

The Puerto Rican is ready to agree right now, saying he has more movement than during the past several seasons. During his turn in the batting cage, Orlando gave his knee a maximum lateral twisting workout and belted some long drives in addition to his out-of-the-park clout.

Manager Herman Franks declared, "He's almost ready now, but I don't want to rush him. He looks great."

Still Franks named a starting lineup for Saturday's spring exhibition game opener against Cleveland in Tucson with veteran Harvey Kuenn at first base.

The Giants' batting order will read Jose Pagan ss, Hal Lanier 2b, Matty Alou lf, Willie Mays cf, Jim Ray Hart 3b, Kueen 1b, Jesus Alou rf and Tom Haller c.

Juan Marichal will start the game Sunday when the Giants entertain the Indians at Phoenix Municipal Stadium. Dick Estelle. Bill Hands and Frank Linze will follow.

Dressen Is Out Of Pain And Danger

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Manager Charlie Dressen of the Detroit Tigers, benched with a light heart attack, continues to rest out of pain and out of danger, says a hospital spokesman.

The 66-year-old manager was permitted no visitors besides his wife as he slept in the intensive care unit of St. John's Hospital yesterday. His physician said his condition remained satisfactory and indicated he may be moved to a private room if he continues to respond to treatment.

"Charlie tried to sit up in bed to show the doctor he's all right," Mrs. Dressen reported.

"I think he figured the doctor would let him get dressed and go right back to Florida."

Dressen awoke Sunday at the Tigers' spring training camp in Lakeland, Fla., with severe chest pains. He flew to his home here, where tests disclosed that he had suffered a mild heart attack.

After two months rest away from the club, his doctor said the veteran baseballer may be permitted to return to the Tigers in an advisory capacity. Meanwhile, his wife said his spirits are good.

"He feels much better," she said. "It helped him, too, to get a message from the Tiger management telling him to take his time, that he has the job as long as he wants it."

HENKE NAMED ASSISTANT AT SAN JOSE ST.

SAN JOSE (AP) — Ed Henke, former San Francisco 49er defensive end, was named last night the new assistant football coach at San Jose State College.

Henke's appointment completes the staff of the new Spartan Coach Harry Anderson. He will be in charge of developing the line.

President Robert Clark said Henke also would be on the physical education faculty. His appointment became effective Monday.

A graduate of the University of Southern California where he was a teammate of Anderson, Henke played 16 years of professional football, eight with the 49ers. He moved to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1960 and finished his career in 1962. He was an assistant coach last year at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif.

Buck Coach To Bruins?

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Vancouver Sun columnist Jim Kearney says Hal Laycoe, coach of the Portland, Ore., Buckaroos in the Western Hockey League, will be the next coach of the Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League.

Kearney said in his column that the Bruins management has decided to replace Milt Schmidt, and Laycoe has agreed to take he job.

Lowest twin double payoff in harness racing at Yonkers, N.Y., during 1964 was $76.10. Bill Gilmour drove the first and fourth winners.

Record Crowd Sees Bucks Defeat Seals

By United Press International

They're coming out in record numbers in Portland to watch red-hot Tommy McVie lead the Bucks to a first-place finish in the Western Hockey League.

McVie hit his 14th goal in as many games last night as the Bucks dumped San Francisco, 5-2, before 10,806 fans—the largest hockey crowd in Portland history.

Portland's win pushed it six points in front of second-place Seattle while the fourth-place Seals are still two points behind Vancouver and one point up on Victoria, which has played four less games.

The Maple Leafs won a key 3-2 decision at Los Angeles before another good crowd of 7,031.

Wayne Connelly of the Seals tied the count at 2-2 last night at Portland with his 33rd goal of the season half-way through the second stanza. But McVie hit his 33rd three minutes later to put Portland ahead for keeps.

At Los Angeles, Howie Young of the Blades swelled his total minutes of penalties to 214. Only four other players have been assessed 200 minutes or more in WHL play and Young seems sure to break the record of 226 minutes established in the 1962-63 season by Portland's Mike Donaldson.

John Sleaver sparked Victoria with two goals while Ed Ehrenverth had three assists. It was 3-0 when Warren Hynes and Norm Johnson scored early in the last stanza, but the Blades could not push another goal past Al Millar.

All teams are idle tonight.

Big Time Ski Competition Comes To United States This Weekend

Big-time ski competition comes to the United States with this weekend's televised International Team Races at Vail, Colorado. This will open the most intensive period of competitive skiing in the United States since the 1960 Winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley.

Teams from France and Austria will compete with six men and four women skiiers from the United States in downhill and slalom events on Saturday and Sunday. Local boy Jimmy Huega of Tahoe City is on the U.S. team.

THE NEXT WEEK at Sun Valley, March 22-24, the teams will be joined by representatives of Switzerland and Canada of the Harriman Cup.

Most of the teams will go to Crystal Mountain, Wash., for the National Alpine Championships on April 2-4.

Northern Californians will be able to see these top racers in person on April 10-11 at Alpine Meadows, when they will compete in the Far West Kandahar. Finals of the international racing will be at Sugar Bowl on April 24-25, with the Buddy Werner Memorial Race on Saturday, and the world famous Silver Belt race on Sunday.

MARINITES JUST returned from Vail, where they skied on the course where this weekend's international races will be held, are Dr. and Mrs. William Ferguson and Dr. and Mrs. Benton Mathews of Belvedere, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Spencer of Sausalito. They also skiied the new back bowls, where "the snow is unbelievable," according to Mrs. Ferguson. The group went to Aspen for a few days, with beautifulliy bright sparkling sunshine, but a temperature of minus 9 degrees. That's what makes the beautifully crisp snow. New wrinkle to keep warm - socks with electric heating, run by batteries carried at your waist.

The Belvedere Ski Club is planning a trip this weekend to Heavenly Valley, where they will stay at Harvey's Resort Hotel at South Shore. There will probably be about 12 couples, plus assorted children.

Bob Bagnall and Dr. Donovan Cook of Belvedere were on the slopes at Squaw Valley last Saturday, with their daughters.

BUCKING THE LIFT line at Sugar Bowl on Sunday, we saw Dr. and Mrs. Manuel Allende.

It was a big day at Sugar Bowl, with the giant slalom of the Bay Area Ski Federation going on. Marin Ski Club team members racing included Barry Evergettis, Dick Schoepf, Brian Wittenkeller, John Yonkow, Scott Watterworth, Annagret Yonkow and yours truly. Our club placed eigth out of ten teams.

This weekend, Marin Ski Club and Berkeley Ski Club will race on Saturday at Sugar Bowl.

Mid-Year Form In Training

By PETE DOWD
UPI Sports Writer

Bob Swift took over the reins of the Detroit Tigers yesterday as interim coach and lost no time convincing the team in general—and Al Kaline in particular—that he has no intention of being a rubber stamp.

Acting in a manner befitting his name, Swift told his men that he would follow ailing Manager Chuck Dressen's policies up to a point, but that he intended doing several things his own way. His first executive decision involved moving Kaline up to the lead-off spot in the spring training lineup.

Dressen, who is hospitalized in Santa Monica, Calif., after suffering a heart attack Tuesday, had the Tiger outfielder in the No. 3 batting position in camp.

Despite the calendar date, several clubs showed early indications of mid-season form yesterday.

At the St. Louis Cardinals training site in St. Petersburg, Fla., veterans Lou Brock and Curt Flood tripled and Bob Skinner and Steve Huntz doubled as the world champions exploded for an 11-hit barrage of springtime slugging.

The pitchers stole the gold stars at the Dodgers' camp as Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres and Joe Moeller each turned in three innings of shutout hurling during intrasquad action.

SIEBERN HOMERS

Norm Siebern's home run provided the victory margin in the Orioles' intrasquad tilt and Carl Yastrzemski did the same with a two run homer for the Boston Red Sox' blue squad.

Tony Perez contributed two circuit smashes and Art Shamski tagged a grand slammer to lead their squad of Cincinnati Reds to a 10-5 victory in a camp game, while Cleon Jones' triple highlighted the New York Mets' action.

Rookie outfielder Jack Warner earned a strong vote of confidence from Los Angeles Angel mentor Bill Rigney when he tagged the longest homer ever hit in the Angels' Palm Springs training camp. The 21-year-old El Monte, Calif., native also displayed what Rigney called "the best wing in camp.".

UNDER SCRUTINY

Rookie infielder Horace Clarke comes under the close scrutiny of Yankee Manager Keane tonight when the Bombers face the Washington Senators . . . Clarke has impressed Keane during the first phase of training both at the plate and around second base . . . Rico Carty will also get the once over Saturday when the Milwaukee Braves open their exhibition schedule against the Dodgers. . .He made a strong showing as a rookie outfielder last year and Manager Bobby Bragan has temporarily switched him to first base this season.

Johnny Romano of the Chicago White Sox caught batting practice yesterday for the first time this season with fine results . . . Romano had been hampered by a strained knee ligament during the first week of training . . . Manager Gil Hodges of the Washington Senators has named veteran hurler Bennie Daniels to start against the Yankees tonight, while southpaw Chris Short has received the initial mound assignment for the Philadelphia Phils Grapefruit League game against the Pirates Saturday. . . Hurler Tom Butters of the Pirates, who incurred a neck injury in an auto accident en route to camp, has been ordered to rest for three weeks.

Russell Coaches And Stars

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The acting coach of the Boston Celtics has a sterling report for regular boss Red Auerbach today about big Bill Russell.

Auerbach was off on a scouting trip yesterday while Russell and the Celtics romped over Detroit 125-105 and virtually ended any playoff hopes for the Pistons.

The acting coach's statistics on Russell read 25 points, 18 rebounds, five assists and seven blocked shots. An impressive line and one the acting coach will be most pleased to present to Auerbach. That's because the acting coach was Russell.

In yesterday's other NBA action, New York ripped Philadelphia 134-123 and St. Louis thumped Cincinnati 137-113.

The Knicks won their second straight over the 76ers, scoring 40 points in each of the middle two quarters and overcoming an early Philadelphia bulge. Howie Komives had 26 points and Bob Boozer and Johnny Green 23 apiece for New York. Wilt Chamberlain's 27 led the losers.

The Hawks won their fifth straight with five men over 16 points led by Len Wilkens' 23. Jerry Lucas had 25 for the Royals.

Grand Award To Don Schollander

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Schollander, 18-year-old winner of four Olympic gold medals in swimming, was selected last night for the first annual "Grand Award of Sports."

The presentation of a 15-inch bronze and gold figure to the lad from Lake Oswego, Ore., was made by Col. John Glenn, the former astronaut, in a national television show by ABC.

Schollander, who was selected in January as the "Male Athlete of the Year" for 1964, in The Associated Press' 34th annual poll, was chosen in the final Grand Award voting over Jimmy Brown, of the Cleveland Browns, who had 66 points; Olympic running champion Peter Snell of New Zealand, 20; Bill Bradley, Princeton's All America basketballer, 14, and Notre Dame quarterback John Huarte, 7.

A computer was supposed to digest the judges' selections and write out the name of the winner of the over-all "Grand Award of Sports." It slowly came up with the points of the runners-up but Schollander's winning total never was announced on the program.

The selections were based on 1964 performances. Winners in 20 categories of sports were presented with miniature replicas of the major award.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

You Gotta Be Where Fish Are To Catch 'Em, The Anglers Say

STEVENS

History does repeat itself! A neighbor went fishing in the upper San Pablo Bay on Sunday. When quizzed about his luck, he said: "All bad! We fished from around 9 a.m. until the middle of the afternoon. We only caught one bass and four flounders."

I called a chap who also fished that area. Between his friend and himself they had four nice stripers, each well over 11 pounds. So the old saying: You gotta be where the fish are to catch 'em, holds true. One might add to that axiom: "And wait for the proper stage of the tide!"

CARL BENNETT of Rodeo Marina called to report some nice catches made on Saturday and Sunday, but — "Many of them (anglers) quit too early. The ones who worked the area behind Buoy 7, and called it a day in the middle of the afternoon, didn't do so well."

The fish became active real late in that area. Some very nice bass were landed, all of good size. Dick Payne and friend had 5 bass to 18 pounds. Bennett said four party boats averaged about 1½ fish per rod. Most of the stripers taken from aboard party boats were landed by angles using sardines or anchovies. Bull head baits still account for hefty stripers, however.

PETE RIVERS of Hayward Fisheries reported one bass that was almost a record. Fishing off Garner Point in the Suisun Bay, Troy Adams of Castro Valley hokked, played and finally landed a true monster, a striped bass that weighed in at 42 pounds, 8 ounces. Congratulations, Don!

Rivers also gave honorable mention to Will Richter and Leo Nordstrom for boating two sturgeon and 3 stripers from 12 to 18 pounds.

JOE WUN of Sportsmen's Center reported a 28½ pound bass taken by Betty Tarvin off Buoy 8, and Lee Agee limited with bass to 19½ pounds off China Camp. (Best locales in the China Camp area seem to be the Pump House, the shell banks and other nearby spots, but mostly in fairly shallow water.)

Jim Purcell and friend fished Frank's Tract for 16 dandy catfish to 2½ pounds. A late report from Pete Rivers mentions Don Fisher who limited with bass from 15 to 18 pounds, and A. T. Saunders who caught a 43 pound sturgeon on anchovies.

Salmon trolling is best rated as "spotty" but according to what I gather on my Halicrafer, it's picking up.

LOTS OF catfish in most back country spots, but no news on stripers.

Lake Berryessa and Clear Lake reported black bass fishing poor for the most part, but Don Smith of Don's Bait Shop reported oodles of cats (mostly mud cats) and plenty of nice crappies and bluegills.

So that's it for today. Chow!

2 Marin Anglers Win In Contest

B. O. Yeoman of Novato and Russell Damos Jr. of San Anselmo were among the winners in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club striped bass fishing contest for the week ending last Sunday.

Yeoman caught a striper weighing 27 pounds and 8 ounces in San Pablo Bay, and Damos pulled out a bass weighing 26 pounds near China Camp.

Johnny Logan Hangs 'Em Up

Night Instructors' Pay Hike On Tap

Paying evening class instructors at the same rate as day instructors could raise the Marin Junior College District budget by as much as $58,595 next year, according to dean of instruction Paul M. Clymer.

Clymer will present a report on the pay question, raised by the faculty salary committee, at a meeting of the district board of trustees at 8 p.m. today in room 24 of Harlan Hall at the college.

Clymer in his report shows that the part-time instructors are now paid at about half the equivalent hourly rate of full-itme instructors. However, 26 full-time day instructors also teach night classes at the lower hourly rate.

Clymer suggested a compromise, in which certain subjects (fire science, geology, health education, law enforcement, sociology and zoology, where the class load is light) would be paid at the old hourly rate, but others would go to the full-time rate. This change would cost $48,597.50, he predicted.

The board will also receive reports on high school students who are taking classes on the college campus and on federal programs available to the college district.

Marine Group Being Moved

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — A 6,000-man Marine bridgade boarded ships last night, reportedly bound for Okinawa to replace 3,500 Marines sent to South Viet Nam early this week.

"The Marines are moving," said a spokesman for Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific military commander. There was no other official comment in Hawaii on the troop movement.

The 1st Marine Brigade members were moved from Hawaii's Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station to Pearl Harbor by truck convoy last month.

Smog Control Bill Backed

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board favors proposed legislation that would provide stricter control on automotive factors.

Senate Bill 317 was endorsed by the board yesterday.

Board Chairman William E. Nissen said it aims for "a workable auto smog control program on a statewide basis."

The bill would provide for stronger enforcement by the California Highway Patrol. It also would require annual inspections of devices for all 1963 and newer vehicles on a statewide basis.

Notary Commissioned

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced issuance of a notary public commission to Louis E. Rago, 1350 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Boat With Skis To Land Troops

SAN DIEG O(AP)—Lockheed-California Co. is developing a troop landing craft that skims the water at 48 miles per hour on retractable skis.

The 25-foot boat, called Hydro-Ski, was described yesterday at the Marine Systems and Anti-submarine Warfare Conference.

The flat-bottomed craft has a pair of skis which retract into the hull. When they are extended at high speed, the boat rises clear of the water to reduce wave impact. The skis are retracted again before the boat hits the beach.

John R. Brown, marine vehicles manager for the Lockheed-California Co., told the conference the craft now is undergoing ocean tests.

Others elected were Sue Love, vice president; Linda Holzinger, secretary; Loredana Goldolfi, treasurer, and Myrs Scott, historian. The club is accepting applications for new members, Miss Clark announced.

Showgirl Due Dope Sentence

LOS ANGELES (AP(—Leona Gage, a beauty queen for a day eight years ago, will be sentenced April 2 on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Superior Judge J. Howard Ziemann convicted the 26-year-old showgirl in a non-jury trial yesterday. He said he would consider her application for probation prior to sentencing.

Miss Gage was arrested last Oct. 29 after she was taken to Hollywood Receiving Hospital for treatment of what police said was an overdose of drugs. Officers said they found marijuana in one of her shoes.

SHE STILL HOLDS THE FORT

Emma Augusta Rogers, sharp and spry at 84, pumps water in kitchen of her 130-year-old Cape Cod home after a recent victory at the annual Orleans, Mass., town meeting. Selectmen wanted to buy her home (bottom photo) and raze it for a parking lot. The whole town voted unanimously to keep the property intact. This is a rare three-quarter style Cape Cod house with a single window on one side of front door and two on the other. (AP Wirephotos)

In Heart Of Every Star There Is A Dark Place

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In the heart of every star there is a dark place where it doesn't twinkle.

You wouldn't think that is true of Olivia de Havilland, but it is, according to her own testimony.

Throughout her life whatever Livvy wanted, Livvy got. She was a standout student in school; she was still in her teens when she first won stage acclaim in Max Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Through a 30-year screen career she has been signally honored. She is one of the few actresses who have won two Oscars, and three other times she has been nominated for Academy Awards.

What could bother her now after such long success?

"I have a fear of being unloved," she said, "or of believing I'm loved and finding out that I'm not. Isn't that odd?"

Miss de Havilland attributes the feeling to the breakup of her parents marriage — her father was an international patent attorney in Tokyo — during her childhood.

"I never knew my father after the age of 3," she remarked, "and I never even saw him for 10 years. I felt abandoned.

"It has profoundly affected both my life and that of my sister, Joan Fontaine. A thing like that leaves you jittery inside ever after."

She is determined that her own two children, Benjamin, 15, and Gisele, 10, won't grow up with that feeling.

"I think the biggest duty of a parent is to have comprehension," she said. "To love them is not enough. Love without comprehension has no value.

"In adolescence children need this help most. They have strong feelings, then they don't understand themselves."

At 48 Livvy, married to a French magazine editor, retains the same haunting beauty she had when she played Melanie in "Gone With the Wind" in 1939. Her hair is a color she describes as pale mink. Her reddish brown eyes glow when she talks.

She is vivacious, keenly intelligent, bubbling over with many interests.

"The world is full of infinite possibility," she said. "That's a thing so hard for many of us to remember, so easy to forget.

"Self-discouragement defeats too many people. By that I don't mean merely lack of energy. I mean negative attitudes.

"In every negative experience there is the seed of some immediately positive experience — if you can just find and develop it.

'Cleo' From 5 To 7 Film To Be Shown

"Cleo from 5 to 7," first full-length feature by French "new wave" film maker Agnes Varda, will be shown at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito, sponsored by the Sausalito Film Society.

Also on the bill will be "Two Men and a Wardrobe," a short film made in 1957 by the Polish Film University.

National Poison Prevention Week

The Marin County Pharmaceutical Assn. hopes to distribute 20,000 counterdose charts next week as part of its observation of National Poison Prevention Week, March 14-20.

Pharmacists throughout the country will be distributing the charts, which list common poisons and overdoses and describes first aid treatment for each type of poison and overdose. Counterdoses are given in most cases.

The association pointed out that every year more than a half million children are poisoned accidentally by swallowing medicines, cleaning agents, insecticides and other common household articles. Five hundred of these children die each year, the group said.

WORKS OF MARIN COUPLE

Paintings by the late William F. and Marianne Rauschnabel, both of whom taught art at College of Marin, will go on display Saturday in the Frank Howard Allen and Son real estate office at 535 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley. The paintings will be for sale. This one is by Rauschnabel, typical of his work.

Supreme Court Deputy Promoted

Gale E. Bishel of Tamalpais Valley has been promoted from deputy to chief deputy of the Supreme Court of California, it was announced today by William I. Sullivan, clerk of the court. Bishel is the sole chief deputy in the state.

He and his wife, Betty, and two sons, Bobby and Billy, live at 342 Linda Way. He has been with the courts, he said, about 14 years.

Conservation Plans

Formation of an auxiliary unit of the Marin Conservation League in the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area will be discussed by the league at 2 p.m. Saturday at the home of Mrs. Walter Preston, Horseshoe Hill, Bolinas.

San Rafael Officials Set Fresno Tour

A San Rafael tour of Fresno's downtown mall March 31 will leave Richmond via Santa Fe Railroad train at 8:25 a.m. and return to Richmond at 8:15 p.m.

About 60 San Rafael businessmen and city officials have so far expressed their intention of going on the tour, said Jack Alvarado, executive secretary of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce. There is room for 100.

Parking will be available at Richmond. The timetable calls for lunch after arrival in Fresno, then a tour of the Fulton Mall, the Manchester Center, Fresno State College grounds and the Fresno air terminal. The train leaves Fresno at 4:45 p.m.

A mall has been suggested as a possible improvement for San Rafael's downtown shopping district. The trip is being sponsored by the chamber of commerce and the city council.

Annual Camellia Show Is Slated

The Northern California Camellia Society will hold its 20th annual camellia show March 20 and 21 at Diablo Valley College, Pleasant Hill, according to president Hugh Paterson of 16 Red Rock Way, Los Ranchitos.

Several other Marin residents are among the society's approximately 200 members.

Senior Citizen Month Is Planned For May

Marin's 11 cities, plus some 300 civic and social groups in the county, have been asked to take part in observing Senior Citizens Month during May.

Proclaimed officially on a national, state and county basis, the observance will be coordinated largely by the county's Community Services Project.

County supervisors have written each city's mayor asking him to proclaim Senior Citizens Month locally. Clubs and other groups have been asked to hold their own programs and to nominate candidates for a county-wide award to an outstanding senior citizen.

Tiburon Boulevard Contract Awarded

Brown-Ely Co. of San Rafael, with a low bid of $469,930, has won the contract for extension of Tiburon Boulevard from Blackfield Drive to a point just beyond Reed Ranch Road.

The job calls for grading and paving of four-fifths of a mile, grading an additional two-fifths of a mile and placement of rock along the bank of Richardson Bay to a point seven-tenths of a mile west of San Rafael Avenue, according to the State Department of Public Works which awarded the contract.

Almonte To Hear County Planner

County Planning Director B. D. Dobbs will meet with Almonte Improvement Club directors next Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse to discuss minimum building site requirements.

He will also discuss the concept and status of a county zoning administrator, the concept of architectural supervision, enforcement of zoning and sign ordinances in the Tamalpais Junction commercial area, and status of the Tamalpais Valley master plan review.

On Saturday, there will be a door - to - door campaign in Almonte for the 1965 membership drive, according to Herbert E. Davis, club president.

$250,000 Estate Goes To Daughters

Mrs. Dorris B. Stewart, widow of a former owner of San Rafael Military Academy and who died on Feb. 27, left an estate of $250,000 to three daughters, according to a will filed with Marin Superior Court.

It leaves the estate—stock in the A. L. Stewart Estate Co., San Rafael—in equal shares in a trust fund to Mrs. Sally Dunn of Santa Cruz; Mrs. Sandra Nuckols of Burlingame, and Susan Clare Stewart of San Rafael.

The will specifies no portion left to a son, Jimmy J. Stewart, 60 Altura Way, Greenbrae. Executor for the estate is Frank S. Gaines of San Rafael.

Mrs. Stewart, 60, died in her home on El Cerrito Avenue in San Rafael after a long illness. Her husband, Alpheus Lloyd Stewart, was superintendent of the military academy about 30 years.

Hearing on a petition for probate of the will was set for 10 a.m. on March 22.

Sen. Dodd's Speech Aids Johnson

By EWDARD W. O'BRIEN
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—Until a few days ago, a visitor in the United States could easily get the impression that President Johnson was wholly out of step with the American people in his refusal to pull out of Viet Nam.

The critics of his policy dominated the stage in the Senate, the traditional forum for debate on foreign affairs. They made long speeches condemning the United States for fighting the Communists in Viet Nam and said the only proper course in all morality and good judgment was to leave. Some of the critics filled page after page in the Congressional Record with letters and telegrams from people who agreed with their denunciations of President Johnson.

Many newspapers published advertisements signed by college professors and demanding negotiaiton and withdrawal—or just plain withdrawal.

It is always hard to appraise American public opinion on a warmly controversial issue. Diplomats stationed in Washington and at the U. N. in New York did become convinced, to a considerable extent, that indignation was rising against President Johnson in this country and that he would be forced to reverse his Viet Nam policy.

Then, on Feb. 23, a Connecticut Democrat, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, made a speech that was more than overdue in that body. He showed that Viet Nam is but one aspect of a worldwide struggle, that the United States cannot surrender there without mortal danger to its own safety and self-respect, and that "it is preposterous to maintain that we should reduce our effort and lessen our commitment" in any part of the struggle.

Once speech can't change the course of the world but it can have a migthy influence. Senator Didd's scholarly array of facts about Southeast Asia and his logic in presenting them may have turned the tide, at least for now, in the Senate. Some senators have said as much in public and others are saying it privately.

It is a fact that the disengagers have been relatively quiet since then, while the United States has been stepping up its combat role in Viet Nam.

It is also a fact that mail to some senators and representatives has shifted from strongly in favor of withdrawal to strongly in favor of staying and halting Communist aggression.

Senator Dodd's own mail since his speech suggests not only great public concern about Viet Nam but also a deep eagerness for more knowledge of the problem.

The response to his office has been heavily but not unanimously favorable. Many more than half of those who expressed agreement with the substance of his speech, as they have read or heard about it in the press, also requested the full text. There is unmistakable realization of the seriousness of Viet Nam, the effects of an American pullout and the need for informed public opinion.

Marin GOP Council Elects Officers

David B. Allison, Mill Valley engineer, has been elected a director of the Marin Republican Council, an organization of business and professional men to promote GOP principles and candidates.

Directors re-elected for three-year terms are William S. Anderson Jr., and Paul R. Hearle of San Rafael, Henry J. Broderick of Tiburon; William L. Curley of Kenfield, Robert W. Derryberry of Mill Valley and Edmond C. Ward of Greenbrae.

Reserve Officer Taking Course

Wayne E. Cliff of 425 Quietwood Drive, Marinwood, is taking a refresher course in supply afloat at the Navy's transportation management school at the Naval Supply Center in Oakland.

Cliff is a lieutenant in the Navy Reserve and serves as correspondence officer for Surface Division 12-31, which trains electronics personnel at 153 Madison Avenue, San Rafael.

9 Condemnation Suits Approved

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District directors Tuesday night authorized filing condemnation suits against nine property owners for sewer easements in connection with the Tamalpais Woods sewer system, now about 60 per cent complete.

About 55 other property owners deeded or sold to the district necessary easements for the line.

The board also approved advertising for bids for sale of bonds for the assessment district.

The district's new office building on Bell Lane is about 75 per cent complete.

Completes Course

Pfc. Robert Del Santo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Del Santo, 212 Terrace Avenue, San Rafael, has completed a course in micro-wave radio frequencies at the Signal Corps Schools, Fort Monmouth, N. J. Next assignment will be overseas.

Pressures On For Less Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (WPS) — "Where we have given the most aid, we have inspired the most antagonism," Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a speech critical of the U.S. foreign aid program.

He cited the United Arab Republic as an example, adding that the U.S. is under no obligation to have "aid programs in every country of the world."

Far more critical speeches have been heard here - in increasing number and bitterness since Indonesia's President Sukarno told the U.S. to " go to hell" and President Nasser said the U.S. could "jump in the lake" with its aid.

Many of the critics are longtime opponents of foreign aid. Many others are one-time supporters who have become disillusioned or discouraged by the results.

What makes Senator Fulbright's comments so significant is that this noted internationalist has long been an outstanding advocate of foreign aid. Indeed, until his withdrawal this year, he had served as floor manager to get administration foreign aid requests approved by the Senate.

Fulbright's change of attitude is perhaps the most notable reflection of the growing American resentment of anti-U.S. acts and speeches in countries which have received substantial American aid.

Indications point to a tough reappraisal of U.S. aid policies this year, with increasing public pressure for diverting many of the unappreciated foreign aid dollars to domestic projects which will aid needy areas on the home front.

Those attending the lectures may also take part in a two week summer field program June 20 to July 4 at Asilomar on the Monterey Peninsula.

Parading Obscene Words At U.C. Is Senseless

The latest "four letter word" episode at University of California makes even less sense than the demonstrations and riots that erupted late last year in the free-speech controversy.

The rebels of last December's free speech battle may have had some semblance of a "cause" for which they were fighting—the freedom of political solicitation on campus.

But the students and non-students who are currently trying to stir up another controversy by flaunting obscenity in public are rebels without any cause whatsoever.

The redeeming feature of the latest furor is that there are other students who immediately stood up to condemn those who were displaying the obscene words.

Prof. Mark Schorer, well-known author and respected chairman of the university's English department, labeled the "four-letter word" rally a "disservice to the Free Speech Movement" and akin to the "panty raid-sex-beer" category.

"It makes it more difficult for the faculty to protect your serious interests," the professor pointed out.

Student rebels, who consider themselves too sophisticated to heed admonition from newspaper editorials or society at large, would do well to heed the advice of one of their own faculty members.

We realize that some college students today are war veterans who picked up their share of four letter words and can use them with careless abandon.

But even they can certainly confine the use of such language to stag parties or their own circle of friends without advertising their new found vocabulary on placards in public view of women and children.

College men who would impose such vulgarities on an unwilling public show even less sense than the group of high school students in Marin who recently led a bus driver on a wild goose chase up and down Mount Tamalpais.

The bus episode was dangerous and inexcusable. But the parading of obscene words by a group of grown college students was utterly senseless.

Attacks On U.S. Embassies Getting To Be Too Much

WASHINGTON—It is getting to be too much of a bad thing—these violent attacks on U. S. embassies abroad, with foreign governments permitting and encouraging them.

One day the headline reads: "U. S. Embassy Stoned Again By Moscow Mob." And on another: "Indonesians Invade U. S. Envoy's Home."

IT'S GETTING out of hand. Words alone are not accomplishing anything. U. S. diplomatic establishments have been violently attacked at least 60 times in 28 countries during the past three years. And the pointless ritual goes on—attack, protest, tongue-in-cheek apology, and repair of damage. No guarantee that it won't happen all over again.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has put himself into the issue. This means that something has got to happen. The president can't protest, see his protests ignored, and do nothing about it.

He told Congress in his State of the Union message: "We cannot be indifferent to acts designed to injure our interests, our citizens, or our establishments abroad. The community of nations requires mutual respect. We shall extend it and we shall expect it."

WE HAVE BEEN extending protection to foreign embassies in Washington and not getting it in return.

President Johnson has gone further. On Feb. 10 he said that the U. S. would insist that its embassies "be given the protection which is required by international law and custom and which is necessary for the conduct of diplomatic relations between states." He then pointedly added that "expressions of regret and compensation are no substitute for adequate protection."

We insist and we protest, but protection is not forthcoming.

AMBASSADOR Foy Kohler in Moscow said the Soviet protection of the embassy was "grossly inadequate." The Kremlin issued a permit for the demonstration to be mounted against the embassy. Students were supplied with poster material, mimeograph machines, portable microphones, and they were armed with rocks, ink bottles, sticks, and slingshots with metal projectiles. They were allowed to break through the police lines, and only after the vandalism had run its course were soldiers, who had been standing idly by two blocks away, summoned to break it up.

The rule of inviolability of diplomatic representatives has served for several thousand years as the basis of relations between nations. This rule is now being widely and recklessly violated.

SOME STOUT medicine will have to be prescribed. The best prescription I have seen comes from Loy W. Henderson, who recently retired as undersecretary of state for administration after a distinguished career in the foreign service. Henderson thinks we can't fool around with this thing much longer. This is what he proposes:

"If the United States government should have reason to believe that the insults were offered or the attack was made with the tacit approval or connivance of the government responsible for the protection of our representatives and property, we should at once recall all of our representatives from the country and should demand that its representatives leave American territory. It also should be thoroughly understood that, if the circumstances should appear to warrant, we might take additional sanctions."

Henderson is one who weighs his words. He isn't disposed to coach from the sidelines. I suspect that what he is advocating publicly is being seriously considered by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

HERO TURNS BURGLAR

A burglar who holds a medal for bravery was released from San Quentin Prison not long ago. It was done on condition that he find a job and report monthly to the parole board for two years.

In 1961 the man suffered severe burns by repeatedly dashing into a blazing garage to save four children. For his outstanding valor, he was awarded a Carnegie medal and the $750 that went with it.

Less than a year later the same man was arrested for robbing a store. He told police that he owed plastic surgeons $6,000 and needed an additional $20,000 for more surgery.

Despite his bent for thievery this man showed that he also had an unusual capacity for good. How much more satisfying his life might have been if he had given wider play to his nobler impulses and restrained his weaknesses.

Focus attention on the God-given power of every person to do good and avoid evil and you may be instrumental in bringing out the best in man.

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save what was lost." (Luke 19:10)

Instill in me such a strong desire to do good, O Lord, that I will be little disposed for mischief.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Accident Victim Thanks Rescuers

Editor, Independent-Journal:

On the evening of Jan. 20 I had an accident on the San Quentin Road (Sir Francis Drake extension). Two or three drivers stopped immediately, lifted my truck off me, called the police and made me comfortable until the ambulance arrived. While the accident itself was bad, I'm certain that its severity was lessened by the prompt action of these men.

I've not had the opportunity to thank them and have no way to contact them since their names were not taken as witnesses. I'd appreciate it if they would call me so I could thank them personally.

Land Speculator's Good Side Outlined

Editor, Independent Journal:

Your Feb. 27 editorial titled, "We Hope Land Boom is not Just a Bubble" was excellent—with a few minor omissions.

Your article is the first attempt I have seen to justify the existence of the "despised land speculators."

Without the presence of these big bad wolves in the real estate market, offering previously withheld large land parcels at the opportune time for development, it would be difficult for our amateur planning commissions to formulate regional balanced controls.

Introduction of these large dormant parcels permits setting the ground rules in advance of their development, dealing with only the one big bad wolf owner-speculator, rather than the vast whelp which follow the varied form of householders, apartment houses, gas stations, supermarkets, stores and factories.

The state and local subdivision statutes of our enlightened entourage effectively separates the sheep from the goats, and puts the wolves on leashes.

In the sale of five or more contiguous parts of a latent land holding, who but the big bad wolf has the wherewithal, knowhow and foresight to shadow-box with the planning commissions, lenders, engineers, contractors, attorneys and others who must be fed at the opening-day feast?

Your concern that the "land poor rich of the Great Depression" may reappear may be dispelled somewhat by the fact that most of our "despised land speculators" today are of necessity people of experience and means, and not gas station attendants buying unregulated stock certificates on 2 per cent margin.

And even if an occasional speculator turns out to be a Billie Sol Estes, some other speculator picks up the pieces and completes the project.

The deed to a piece of land—any land—whether it be a 1925 Florida lot, or a Richardson Bay mud flat, ALWAYS has value, while a stock certificate can end up as Junior's toy paper airplane.

Long live the speculators! Without them we would have an abundance of "open areas" for the conservationist crowd to pick from.

What Is Unification Effect On The Child?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As Marcia Hagen suggests, we can certainly use the answers to the questions she raises when we make our decision on school unification.

However, there is one important question not specifically asked. To my mind it is the most important of all — to-wit: How would unification affect the individual Marin child?

For instance, at the University of California, or at Stanford, how successful is the student who had all his previous schooling in the unified San Francisco public school system as compared to a student in a smaller unified district? (Always, of course, considering persons of similar I.Q.'s). And, again, as compared to the present Tamalapis District system?

And, again, for those who do not go on to college, which ex-students have the least problem in finding a job? In retaining a job? . . .

No matter how "cheap" or "expensive" an education is, if it isn't serving the child properly, it's not worth whatever it costs.

Even now, in our smaller grammar school districts, some children get overlooked and their potential is lost forever. In a larger district, this kind of problem is apt to be compounded.

Many attribute the troubles at the University of California to its very bigness, and this same casual "loss of identity" can happen in any large system. Will it be good for our children? . . .

180-DEGREE TURN

Not All Arms Control Proposals Good, Including Plan By Lynch

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The unusual sweetness and light atmosphere which has prevailed for firearms control legislation so far this year took a 180-degree turn last week with the introduction of three bills sponsored by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

About 10 bills had been introduced this year to tighten control over purchase and possession of concealable weapons. They were recommended by the Assembly Committee on Criminal Procedure and met with the approval of the National Rifle Assn., which normally is opposed to most firearms control legislation.

THESE BILLS, by Assemblymen Gordon H. Winton Jr., D-Merced, and Richard J. Donovan, R-Chula Vista, would increase the penalty for theft of a firearm to a felony; re-define machine guns and sawed-off shotguns to take in new versions of the weapons; restrict sale to narcotic addicts or ex-convicts; prohibit possession of handguns by persons under 18 unless accompanied by parents or guardians, and require some additional information on applications for purchase of handguns.

This is not to say that there haven't been any "bad" bills introduced so far this year. There have been at least two or three but these were expected to gain so little support that there appeared little chance they would pass. One by Assemblyman Philip L. Soto, D-La Puente, would prohibit sale of ammunition to persons under 21; one by Assemblyman Charles B. Garrigus, D-Reedley, would prohibit carrying a rifle in a vehicle in unincorporated areas unless it was in a fastened case, and one by Sen. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, would prohibit two or more persons gathering together to train in use of firearms.

COMES NOW the Lynch package, authored by Assemblyman Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, and McAteer. They include AB 1562, providing permits to carry concealable weapons could be issued to a person only in the county in which he resides; AB 1563, requiring persons who acquire concealable weapons by mail order or from a private party to register them within seven days; and AB 1564, extending the waiting period for purchase of a concealable weapon from three to five days.

Col. E. F. (Tod) Sloan, western representative for NRA, said his organization was vigorously opposed to AB 1562-63 and would go along with the longer waiting period provided in 1564 only if a justification was made for the delay.

Sloan said the counties of Los Angeles and San Francisco have a flat policy of issuing no permits to carry concealed weapons. Passage of 1562 thus would bar about half the people in California from gaining such permits.

SLOAN SAID there already was considerable sentiment for a change in the law to require permits to be issued in all counties and introduction of AB 1562 might lend impetus to this drive. Under such a move, the law would provide that any person who could meet certain standards would have to be issued a permit.

Even officials in the State Department of Justice, which is under Lynch, feel AB 1563 would be an unworkable bill. They say, and Sloan agrees, that enforcement of the requirement to register guns purchased out of state or from private parties would be virtually impossible.

The result well could be that many well-intentioned persons would be law violators without knowing it.

Sloan noted the state checked out more applications for purchase of weapons several years ago, with a 24-hour waiting period, than it does now with 72 hours.

WHILE Jackie Gleason was sunning himself at a posh vacation resort in the Poconos last summer, he noticed a sharp-faced 9-year-old boy staring fixedly at him several times a day. In August, Gleason turned up at an expensive Beverly Hills hotel—and there was the boy watching him again. Finally, Gleason took up headquarters at Miami Beach, and darned if the sharp-faced kid didn't appear once more. Gleason, this time, walked up to the boy and demanded, "Are you deliberately following me—and why do you stare at me all the time this way?" The boy answered, "No, I'm not following you deliberately. I'm just trying to figure out how you can afford to live in this extravagant manner!"

A 9-YEAR-OLD in Westport, daughter of a prominent advertising executive, was searching for words to describe how poor the family of one of her schoolmates was. Finally she hit upon just the characterization for which she had been groping. "Judy's mother and father are so poor," she explained, "that they can only afford to go to Europe on business trips."

DURING the revolution of 1848, the mobs in Paris got completely out of hand. Ledru Rollin, who was supposed to be in charge, cried despairingly, "I've got to follow them: I am their leader!"

Move To Accept 'Cuban Revolution'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson is preparing to issue a policy statement on Communist-ruled Cuba.

On the basis of the tentative pronouncement pending before the president, its apparent purpose is to denounce Fidel Castro's Red dictatorship but not the "Cuban revolution." A definite distinction is drawn between them.

THE STATEMENT also will proclaim firm intention to continue the economic embargo that has been in effect since the 1962 missile crisis.

But there will be no cheer for Cuban exiles who have long urged removal of the ban against armed attacks from the U. S. mainland, and the establishment of a government-in-exile.

Both these much-sought objectives will be cold-shouldered.

IN ENUNCIATING these views, the president will be publicly espousing those advocated by Richard Goodwin, principal author of the forthcoming policy declaration.

Since the early days of the Kennedy administration, the 32-year-old Harvard graduate and law clerk of the late Justice Felix Frankfurter, has favored some kind of "accommodation" with the Castro regime. In the summer of 1961 South American newsmen disclosed that Goodwin had met secretly in Montevideo, Uruguay, with Ernesto (Che) Guevera, top Castro lieutenant and his economic czar.

Subsequently Goodwin was shifted from Kennedy's staff as "Latin American adviser" to a vaguely defined job as assistant to Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver.

GOODWIN BOUNCED back into the good graces of the White House soon after Johnson became president. In last year's campaign Goodwin was one of the president's main speech writers. Recently it was announced Goodwin had been named a regular member of the White House staff with the title of special assistant to the president.

In his role he functions chiefly as speech writer and "adviser on Latin America."

In inner administration councils Goodwin is credited as contending that the U. S. "can live with the Cuban revolution" and should seek through discreet proffers of economic aid and trade to woo it from Russian subservience.

HIS FAVORITE argument is that the U. S. should make available to Castro a "better route to economic viability" in exchange for less dependence on the Soviet.

Goodwin's stand is vigorously challenged by administration and congressional critics on the ground that if it is U. S. policy, as repeatedly asserted by the president, to fight for the freedom of the people of South Viet Nam thousands of miles away, why doesn't the same hold true for the people of Cuba—only 90 miles from U. S. shores.

JUANITA CASTRO, sister of the Cuban dictator, in a speech before the Los Angeles World Affairs Council, characterized her brother as "another Hitler." Declared Miss Castro, "If Fidel had at his disposal the enormous resources which were Hitler's, humanity would already be deeply entrenched in World War III. Fidel's hatred is aimed not only against the United States, but against all his fellow men."

School Superintendents Puzzled Over Tam Elementary Budgets

Elementary school superintendents in the Tamalpais Union High School District have been twitching nervously the past week as they start to consider their budgets for the next fiscal year.

They each have now received a six-page document from the county school office entitled, "state apportionment calculations with unification election considerations."

FIGURING WHAT the budget for next year is going to look like has suddenly become about as easy as tracking a moon rocket with an abacus for a computer. In fact, until the April 20 unification election, no one will really have more than a guess about a particular district budget.

Even if unification is approved, the new unified district will not take over until July, 1966. During the lame-duck year, individual districts will have to operate under a budget similar to previous ones, with some major exceptions.

BUT EVEN IF unification fails, there will be some drastic changes in the way income for any of the existing districts is figured next year. In fact, failure of unification will probably make things even more complicated.

Tax equalization between districts, required by the Uuruh law on school district organization, causes most of the trouble.

A simple way of looking at the tax equalization is that districts with a high assessed valuation per student will have some tax revenue taken away and distributed to poorer districts.

IF THERE ARE, say, 10 elementary districts in a unification area, the rich ones can figure on losing some money, and the poor ones gaining. But the state aid from Sacramento is based inversely on the amount of tax revenue.

Therefore, gaining local tax funds from nearby districts may cost state aid. The amount of the final revenue figure is arrived at through a complicated formula which also considers the district tax rate, and money from federal sources.

The Unruh act also awards $15 per child to districts voting to unify, making a further complication. The final result is that what any one district does in the unification area will affect the budget of every other district.

A district superintendent, looking at the formula which cover two pages of the county office's report, can hardly be blamed for getting up, walking across the room and beating his head against the wall.

Life Among The Lunatics Finds 'Segregation' Problem On Moon

I WISH NOW I'd never opened my big mouth. When the plan to spend several billions to get data on the moon was first broached, I was the only scientist of note to argue the expenditure was unnecessary. "Any child knows," I protested, "that the moon is made of green cheese. And as for life existing there, we've all seen the man in the moon with our naked eye. What more is there to know?"

But my findings were derided as mere superstition. And even when the costly photographs bore me out by revealing the "canals" were just layers of cheesecake, it was shrugged off as a lucky guess. Only the force of public opinion made them include me in the first team to orbit to Luna.

THE LUNATICS—or Moonies, as they call themselves—turned out to be a friendly folk, though at first sight their verdant appearance was frightening and reminded me vividly of the time I crossed the Bay of Fundy during a storm. But if you subsist largely on green cheese, as the Moonies do, that's to be expected. And I know we seemed just as unnatural-looking to them, for I heard some comments about "the palefaces."

We had brought official greetings from the president, and the mayor of Cheeshago, where we landed, responded in kind and presented us each with a package of curds and whey, which, together with chlorophyll, make up the country's chief exports.

Afterward there was an automobile parade to the executive mansion, and the streets were lined with thousands of Moonies who stood in front of their ivy-covered cottages and pelted us with flowers from their gardens. (It is the proud boast of the natives that every Moonie has two green thumbs.) And when we stopped before several of the attractive schools, the kiddies greeted us with the national anthem, "Green Grow the Rashes, O!" which is sung to a tune by Verdi.

I WAS, FRANKLY, enjoying myself immensely, but my colleagues, Drs. Paul H. Lining and John Calvin Rex, both Nobel Prize winners, were whispering somberly and taking notes as we drove along.

But it wasn't till we had got to our hotel rooms, washed up, had a martini or two (with green olives, naturally) and sat down to exchange first impressions that I felt anything was wrong.

"Shocking!" said Dr. Rex. "Utterly inhuman! This calls for a non-violent demonstration as soon as our next plane arrives."

I STARED. "What, in heaven's name, are you two talking about? I thought they treated us handsomely, even rolled out the green carpet for us."

Dr. Rex lifted his hands in dismay. "A white Uncle Tom!"

"Warmonger!" shouted Dr. Lining, waving a SANE banner at me in reproach.

"Didn't you see the terrible ghettos we passed through?" asked Dr. Rex.

THAT REALLY floored me. "Ghettos?" I cried. "I saw nothing but clean streets, beautifully kept cottages with flowers growing in profusion and spacious schools full of happy, smiling children!"

"And didn't you notice," asked Dr. Rex, "that in all these streets and schools there were no American Indians, Chinese, Negroes or even Caucasians?"

"Where would they come from?" I demanded. "These people are all green-skinned, and we earth-bound folk are 238,840 miles away."

"That's evading the issue," screamed Dr. Lining, and this time he waved his Sane banner at me somewhat more menacingly than the rules of his organization allow. "A decent immigration policy would have taken care of that."

"Precisely," said Dr. Rex. "This is nothing but de facto segregation on a grand scale, maintained by a Lunatic power structure which places property rights above human rights."

THE NEXT DAY Dr. Rex called a press conference at which he demanded that half of the Moonie school children be bussed by spaceships to New York, Chicago, Washington and other non-segregated cities. When the mayor—backed up by many of the mothers—demurred on the ground that Luna's own schools were excellent and that the round trip would mean the kids would spend two weeks traveling to and fro for every day they attended school, Dr. Rex threatened to call out American troops to enforce his demands.

That did it. And the next thing we knew we were unceremoniously dragged back to our ship and ordered, at gun point, to return at once. And as a final indignity they took back the curds and whey.

So here I am, wondering what's next. Even if we make a successful re-entry, I face a court-martial for not supporting my colleagues.

Tam's Wayward Bus Really Not Funny

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I read the story in tonight's paper (March 4) about the so-called joke pulled by the Tam High students from Bolinas.

I realize to a lot of people it will seem quite funny, but it is not. Do these people realize that those smart kids could have been seriously injured, or even killed, if anything happened to the bus on those curves? A tragedy like that would certainly amuse no one.

I had that school run over a year ago and believe me it was no great pleasure. At present I have a run from Tam to Sausalito, and I must admit they are a fine bunch of kids. Perhaps the Bolinas kids could take some lessons from them.

No child is perfect, as we all know. But somewhere along the line these kids have to grow up, and it might as well be now.

Comic Strips Offer Stability, Innocence

Editor, Independent-Journal:

My goodness! Good gracious! Gosh! To think so many readers care enough to write about your "comics." Even as I do.

When little, old "Orphan Annie" disappeared so suddenly, I thought I just couldn't bear the shock. I've been reading about her for more years than I care to remember.... She and old 15-23 never do change. Everything and everyone else does. But they don't. They supply a kind of continuity to every day that nothing discourages. So thanks for "Annie."

As for the "Family Circus," I adore those innocent little demons, entirely self-centered, uninhibited, destructive, unadulterated kids. Loving, but not yet so loving as to accept the mores of their culture and their times without saying, "Why?" I hope they all stay too young to ask "why?" Otherwise, they might become like the rest of us, and that would be fatal to any cartoon strip—or would it?

. . . Wouldn't it be nice if all the problems raised in these columns could imply so much fun and tolerance?

Marin Should Heed Its Own Non-Experts

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin County is full of Experts. Paid ones, of course, who spend the communities' funds for plans and projections.

I think it's about time that the NON-Experts should have a say. Non-experts usually say plenty, but, because they are not paid for their services, no attention is ever paid to what they have to say.

For example, several years ago San Anselmo had a non-expert in Bill Ferrari (now deceased). Bill had a Master Plan for the downtown area of San Anselmo. His plan showed possible streets, parking areas and was complete with maps and even a scale model of the area. . . . What happened to it? It wasn't good enough, so thousands of dollars were spent on a new one. . . .

The non-experts could have told the San Anselmo Planning Commission what would happen if permission was given to build under that obvious slide area on Red Hill. . . . The recent pressing for new routes to Northgate . . . the experts say a highway at great expense must be built. The non-experts say, for a fraction, a few streets that end yards from each other could be extended. You would have your short cut from San Anselmo and San Rafael!...

White's Hill, another domain of the experts. The non-experts having studied geology know that the formation of White's Hill . . . will never hold a highway. The early railroads found that out and subsequently built a tunnel. The non-experts say to use the old railroad tunnel as a start and build it into a two-way tunnel such as Waldo. It would do marvels for Real Estate in San Geronimo Valley.

Another classic by the experts is the problem of the Wolfe's Grade road. The non-experts would have elevated the road over the present road, curving it around Marin Catholic school, close to the hill and then dropping it to ground level when past the school. We would have put the pedestrian walkway under the present highway. As a non-expert, I can go on and on. Who wants to listen to a non-expert, when there are experts who are paid to give sage advice?...

Why Not Relocate College Of Marin?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The fisaco at the board of supervisor's meeting Tuesday (Feb. 23) night only goes to prove more than ever the immediate need of a concentrated form of government; namely, the City and County of Marin.

Coordinate all of our incorporated and unincorporated areas into one. Eliminate double taxation in different departments, eliminate our various school districts and combine everything into one....

The Kentfield parents all agree that the Wolfe Grade School is misplaced, as does the president of the school district, but where else, they say, can they go?...

Ah, the answer? Oh Lord protect me from the wrath of the Board of Trustees of the Marin Jr. College. They have several hundred acres of land in Novato.... Place Marin J.C. on land that they own and is standing lifeless and taxless. Turn the College property in Kentfield over to the grade schools and another high school....

The College of Marin imposes a very heavy traffic problem in Kentfield. Students park cars anywhere they want without regard for private property, night and day, and at times cause serious damage to private property....

Take care of the little ones first. Give them the Jr. College grounds and let the college go out to Novato where they have the needed acreage and plenty of room to expand.

Heart Fund 'Fraud' Story Is Clarified

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to clarify the item placed in Tuesday's (March 2) paper reporting a Heart Fund collection fraud. To begin with I was not contacted personally prior to any action being taken and there is no proof as yet that any fraud has been committed.

Youth organizations . . . have always helped us with our drive. These are dedicated young people anxious to assist their community and it is appalling that their honesty should be questioned because of an unproven charge against one. . . .

In many instances, parents accept the assignments and then turn the collection over to their teen-age sons or daughters. Each collector is provided with an identification tag and a kit containing contribution envelopes. A record is kept of each kit given out and constant follow up is made until all are returned. . . .

I am delighted to have the opportunity to tell you that more than $18,000 was brought into Bank of Amercia Heart Sunday (Feb. 28) Night, approximately $2,000 has been deposited since then and the contributions are still coming in. This, I am sure, will be the most successful drive in the history of the Marin County Heart Assn. You have helped us help your heart most generously. It is too bad that the thoughtfulness of a contributor to question the validity of a collector occasioned adverse publicity to put doubts in the minds of the public. I urge you to phone or visit our heart association offices, 1108 Irwin Street if you h ave any questions.

Dangerous Fallacy In 'Tax Reform' Plan

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In regard to your recent excellent editorial on the land boom, it should be emphasized that there is a factor other than the growth of population which causes the land price spiral.

It is the even faster growth of our ability to put land to more and more productive use to satisfy the needs of our growing population. The higher the productive potential of a piece of land, the higher its price, and of course it has no productive potential at all without the available ingenuity and work force to put it to good use....

The roll of the land speculator is to prevent—until his price is met—the application of this human resourcefulness to the satisfaction of human needs....

I had the impression you were pretty much saying this in a different way, but I hoped for a more forceful conclusion than the hope that the bubble would not burst, such as pointing out the dangerous fallacy of Jesse Unruh's and Governor Brown's "tax reform" measure. This bill practically guarantees that the bubble will burst....

A reduction of 25 per cent in property taxes and placement of equivalent taxes on economic activity will relieve taxes only for those who are holding large amounts of property out of the productive economy.

This "tax reform measure" should properly be called "The Land Speculators' Tax Relief Measure."...

Go ahead and relieve taxes for the old folks, and for heaven's sake, get rid of the ridiculous personal property and business inventory taxes—but by any means available kill the main feature of "The Land Speculators' Tax Relief Measure."

Viet Strategy Held Echo Of Goldwater

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your headlines in yesterday's (Mar. 1) paper about the "Reds Reacting to Paper as Expected," goes for me, too. Since numerous and vigorous denials that any such paper "was in the works", (Washingtonese for "in preparation") or even anticipated by our government, or President Johnson, my reaction was one of surprise, as well. I was surprised and disgusted because I would like to get a little honesty from my Government, which has been all too lacking in this entire East Asian operation. Our role in the Viet Nam mess is far out of character, as we would like to have "our image projected" both dishonest and dishonorable . . .

The only hope for the Republicans would be to oppose this outrageous savagery this country is perpetuating in North Viet Nam; that is, if they are smart enough to remember that this very outrage is the policy their soundly defeated candidate was supporting in the last presidential election. I hope Pres. Johnson realizes the rejection of Mr. Goldwater's "trigger-happy" policy is what helped elect him; as many votes were against Goldwater as were for Johnson, so it is a real disappointment to many people to find they had defeated the Arizona Senator, only to have his rejected policy enacted in the White House today.

This is an underhanded operation where we have been forced to counting our victories in how many, be it ever so few, that we succeed in killing every day, instead of objectives we have been able to attain; which is a pretty sad commentary on our position in Viet Nam.

Sausalito's Stand Called Misleading

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The story in Wednesday's (March 3) I-J about the Sausalito City Council's resolution condemning the Marincello project makes pretty discouraging reading for anyone remotely concerned with fair-minded discussion of public issues.

It seems highly unlikely that any of the Sausalito councilmen actually believe that the Frouge Corporation hopes to acquire and develop the surplus military lands that have been proposed for acquisition as a state park. And yet, from the tenor of their comments reported in the I-J, they appeared to be attempting to create just that impression, i. e., that approval of the Marincello project will rule out beaches and any state park on the Headlands.

The County has long taken the sensible position that large-scale projects of this type be done according to a comprehensive plan. The developers of Marincello have responded with such a plan, prepared by highly qualified professional personnel. This plan may, to be sure, have defects, but if it does, responsible opposition should be directed to those defects rather than based upon the patently misleading arguments which were used last Tuesday.

Stagecoach Days Record Set Right

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Noted in your Friday, Feb. 26, issue that the Wells Fargo stagecoach, "Ben Holladay," made another appearance in San Rafael. . . . The mere appearance of a stagecoach with Wells Fargo & Company on its letterboards is in itself an inference that Wells Fargo Express operated stage lines. This they never did in California....

There was a time not too long ago when the Western populace was led to believe that Wells Fargo owned and operated the Pony Express. Nothing could be further from the truth. The great overland freighting firm of Russell, Majors and Waddell were the founders, owners and operators of the Pony Express and the 1960-61 Centennial was the means of bringing out the truth. Wells Fargo was only a local agent for the Pony Express and then only for the last six months. And now with the appearance of the Wells Fargo stagecoach and horses, the image of Wells Fargo Express as being a great stage line operator in California can, if continued, coagulate into "history" rather than the fiction that it is.

The enthralling story of transportation and communications in the early-day West should be revered as history and not used as advertising.

Eleven Years Make Horrendous Changes

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Some inquiries that follow a study of your page 28 on March 6 — "Eleven Years Make A Big Difference": 'Big', or horrendous? An excellent portrayal of what the combined machinations of land speculators and highway gougers can do to our native heath.

Is such inspiring country fit only as foundation for these miserably ill-assorted, architectural shoe boxes — as my good friend Bill Teas (Aero Photos) does here so ably delineate? Perhaps only the bomb can neutralize such desecration, such handworks of man?

And bye the bye, just who or what was Manuel Freitas? I have searched all the histories of California in vain to find this person important in any way.

Does Political Bias Spoil Altruistic Act?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If one were to agree with Mr. Hoffman, political persuasions rather than human feelings would be the determinant when deciding to lend a helping hand to fellow humans....

Before those carpenters went to Mississippi, did they examine their political allegiance to determine the political acceptance of their act? I doubt it. At great personal sacrifice they extended help out of compassion for their fellow man.

Unfortunately, that nobility has now been degraded. Is loyalty to America determined by acts of humanity? If bombing a church is anti-American, what about vandalized schools; defaced public buildings; destruction of property in a civil riot; violence to a police officer? Or could it be a man against a man? A man destroying an idea with which he disagrees? A man violently rejecting the opposing opinion? Is this anti-American or simply close-minded bigotry by persons who happen to be of American citizenship?

Those carpenters were attempting to repair in some measure the injustice perpetrated by a few Americans on other Americans.

As a loyal American politically inclined towards the Republican Party, may I tender apologies to those carpenters for intemperate remarks that debased their act of mercy by having political implications injected as motivation. Theirs was a truly unselfish and generous act which should not be used by others as a vehicle to vent the political spleen.

Tam Bus Episode Branded Not Funny

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The Tam Bus episode Monday (March 1) will undoubtedly be passed over by many citizens as a harmless, if inconvenient, teen-age prank—the "kids will be kids" attitude. It is quite true that our over-organized society has far too little elasticity to accommodate natural youthful exuberance and ingenuity, and few adults give of their talents to remedy the situation. BUT this particular situation should be viewed with a bit more depth.

Where among 24 near-adults was there evidence of character . . . and sensitivity concerning possible accident and harm to that many people? A bus traversing narrow rain-soaked roads in our mountains in winter is no joke.

What kind of a society will 24 such people create tomorrow?...

Such can only be the direct product of the prevailing psychological "permissiveness" attitude in our schools and society—a schooling which largely ignores and sometimes even belittles moral training. . . .

Would it be too terribly drastic to require that these students hie themselves to school for a week a la shanks-horses or via their parents' or friends' inconvenience?...

San Quentin Area Death-Trap Cited

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Marin is a nice place, especially now that we are enjoying an almost summery Spring. . . . There are also some things worth recalling. Notable among these is the record left in this county by a most remarkable man. I refer to the former head of Tam High, Ernest E. Wood. What a man! From practically nothing there grew under his patient care, effort and guidance the institution of learning which he visualized to serve the teen-agers....

Back to the present, shall we? Would you be interested in trying to remove a potential death-trap just outside of San Rafael? A wee bit of publicity will doubtless do the job. From the near end of the Richmond Bridge an overpass takes off through a little ridge in back of San Quentin. The pavement starts 2-cars wide. But just a few hundred feet beyond, and quite without warning, the road shrinks to a meager 1-car width. And on a curve, and over a hill as well. On several occasions after dark, I've been all but pushed off to the right into the guard-railing by the usual driver-in-a-hurry who shot by on my left....

Someone, or several in the Highway Dept. know of this or it would not get the periodic face - lifting. Thanks. This ought to do it. If not, please tell me to whom to award the "Limburger Oscar."

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, March 11, the 70th day of 1965 with 295 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

King Frederick IX of Denmark was born on this day in 1899.

On this day in history:

In 1888, a great blizzard began in New York City and it snowed four straight days.

In 1930, William Howard Taft became the first president of the United States to be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va.

In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the hotly-debated Lend-Lease Bill and immediately ordered goods sent to Britain and Greece.

In 1959, the Senate approved Hawaii as the 50th state.

A Thought for the Day—British statesman Sir Winston Churchill once said: "I cannot forecast to you the action of Russia. It is a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Discard Right Losers In Making Expert Play

When you cannot follow suit, it may be better to discard instead of ruffing.

If you deliberately bring this situation about, executing a "loser-on-loser" play, make sure of discarding the right losers.

Opening lead — ◇ K

Declarer took the ace of diamonds and ran the three top hearts to get rid of the losing diamond. Then he led dummy's last heart and discarded a club.

FINE IDEA

It was a fine idea, as far as it went. If declarer ruffed a diamond instead of playing the fourth heart, he could then lead the king of spades to force out the ace.

East would lead a club to the king, win the club return with the ace and then lead the jack of hearts. No matter how South played, West would get the setting trick with the ten of spades.

South hoped to prevent this situation from developing by giving the opponents the heart trick in exchange for a club. West foiled the plot by discarding the ten of clubs on the fourth heart.

IN MIDDLE

East naturally cashed the ace of clubs and led another club to make South ruff.

When South led the king of spades to drive out the ace, East returned a club and South was in the middle.

WRONG LOSERS

Souht threw the wrong losers on the hearts. He should discard a club on the third heart and his other club on dummy's fourth heart.

Even if West also discards a club, South can ruff the club return and lead the king of spades to force out the ace.

South can then ruff another club and draw trumps with the queen and jack.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ A 4 2
♡ J 10 9 4
♣ A 9 5 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs and raise spades later.

You have 9 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, but you should treat this like an 11-point hand because of the two aces. Aces are really worth more than 4 points for suit contracts.

New Technique In Welding Seams

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI) — Engineers will soon be able to detect flaws in welded seams with the use of an automatic method of reading x-ray films.

The new system reduces the times necessary to read the films by 90 per cent, to 40 minutes for a 100-foot roll.

Alto Annex Tax Hike Explained

A hike of 37 cents in the tax rate for persons living within the Alto corridor, should it be annexed to the City of Mill Valley, was explained today by City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer.

Library, fire and sanitary district taxes amounting to $1.40 would be eliminated from the county tax rate upon annexation, he said. New residents would not be required to pay the existing city bond tax rate of 24 cents.

City sanitary tax rate of 29 cents will be eliminated since sanitation cost will be financed by a service charge, not property tax.

The city tax rate of $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation would thus be lowered by 53 cents for new residents. Result would be a total tax rate for city, county, schools and special districts of 37 cents more than the present total.

Balmer explained the increase in letters to the 30 persons living on Patricia Lane, Lomita and Vasco drives, an area which is surrounded on three sides by the city and which Balmer has said the city would like to annex.

Corrosion Study Being Planned

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — The Department of Metallurgy at the Pennsylvania State University will undertake a study of the effects of copper deposits on the corrosion resistance of copper, nickel and chromium coatings.

The investigation, sponsored by the International Copper Research Association, is concerned with the decorative coatings used on automobiles, household appliances and hardware.

Plan To Move Klamath Town Gets Approval

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — A proposal to move the town of Klamath, severely damaged by the Christmas floods, has been approved by representatives of federal, state and county agencies.

The representatives appointed a steering committee Tuesday to work on the plan to move the town to a 45-acre location behind a proposed realignment of Highway 101, about a mile from the present site.

The plan would relocate Klamath on 45 acres of earth fill behind an elevated Highway 101, farther away from Klamath River. The highway would be five feet above the high water mark of the Christmas floods and 45 feet above the river.

UNSOLD GOODS

Moscow Goes For Discount Buying

MOSCOW (AP) — "How's business?" The director of what is probably Russia's most unusual store was asked. He smiled. So far sales were running 40 per cent above normal, he said.

MOSCOW'S FIRST discount house appeared to be off to a flying start.

Women jostled each other to get at goods cut to half price. They fought for attention from sales girls. It looked like any normal sale in the Western world.

But in Moscow the scene reflected a commercial revolution, aimed at solving a Soviet economic problem.

The people continually clamor for more and better consumer goods. By official statistics, however, about 20 per cent of goods produced last year were left unsold.

Shoppers passed up ready-made clothes, rolls of fabric, cameras, radios, footwear, and other goods. Some were old-fashioned or poorly made. Some were good quality goods, over-produced by central plans which ignored demand. Others, under the state pricing system, cost too much.

THE PROBLEM OF unsold goods was important enough to receive the personal attention of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

In his budget speech Dec. 9, Kosygin announced that a series of special stores would be opened to offer unsold goods at cut prices.

Kosygin visited the first discount store Dec. 29 to inspect preparations for the opening, the director, Josef B. Rzhavsky, said.

THE STORE, a half-hour ride by subway and bus from the Kremlin in central Moscow, was first opened in 1963 as department store No. 50. It was converted into a discount house in December and reopened in January.

For the first few days, Rzhavsky said, sales were 40 per cent above the average three-day period under the old system.

Several new sales techniques were introduced including:

—A sign over the exit saying "Thank you for your purchase."

—Installment credit buying, coupled with reduced prices.

—Advertising in the form of announcements in newspapers, radio and television, and posters calling attention to the price cuts.

—Self-service counters where, for example, a shopper can open a drawer, pick out buttons, drop the required coins in a box, and leave.

Rzhavsky has the authority to cut prices even further if goods do not sell.

Some prices are still high, despite markdowns of 10 to 70 per cent.

MILL VALLEYAN Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger points out some of the birds on a group trail ride she leads on the fourth Thursdays of the month.

Riders Go Bird-Watching

Horseback riding in Southern Marin, says Elizabeth Terwilliger, needs to be encouraged. This she is trying to do by leading a horseback trail-riding, bird-watching group once a month over trails following the ridges and valleys of Marin County.

The newest activity added to the program of outdoor education and exercise led by Mrs. Terwilliger was organized recently and group members took their first ride on Feb. 25.

They will gather regularly for their monthly trek on fourth Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

So far the group is composed mostly of women who have their own horses or those who can borrow them from friends.

Many adults want to participate, Mrs. Terwilliger said, but there are no stables in Southern Marin where horses can be rented. Most of the horses seen on the hillsides in this area belong to children.

She said that in the Southern Marin area there are adults with considerable riding experience who wish riding stables were closer at hand, and that there is much interest in learning to ride.

This was shown a year ago, she said, when over 200 people, most of them family groups, turned out for a series of five two-hour sessions of instruction offered by the Marin County Humane Society at the Circle V Ranch on Saturday mornings.

Marin offers unexcelled opportunities to enjoy beautiful scenery and wild life, she pointed out. Mount Tamalpais and its approaches have many trails—including fire trails that permit riding single file or in pairs—for exploring by horseback.

She called attention to the fact that Joseph Brewster, who formed the Southern Marin Horseman's Assn., is constantly working with the Mill Valley Planning Commission to see that trails are not destroyed or built upon by developers.

Trails along the ridges are even indicated on the county recreation master plan she said, but to maintain this recreation horses—and stables—are needed.

Marin Women

Own A Silk Suit? Be Wary Wearer

Don't expect clothes with silk in them to take as much abuse as other more durable fabrics. It just isn't their nature. This advice comes from the National Institute of Drycleaning which finds silk is often a bit of a problem.

Most common silk misbehavior, according to the Institute, is the "silk split." These splits occur in areas where stress is put on the fabric during wear. Later the slight mechanical action necessary in drycleaning may cause the weakened yarns to give way and split apart.

One reason such fabrics "split" is there aren't enough yarns per square inch of fabric to give durability. Another is the delicate warp yarns are so fine they have little strength.

Citizenship Goes To 21 In Marin

Twenty-one Marin County residents gained their United States citizenship during February, but some of the new citizens won't tarry long in this county.

Klaas and Conny van de Pol, of 335 Fawn Drive, Sleepy Hollow, will leave within a month for a second stay in Saudi Arabia, after living here six years. Both husband and wife are natives of Holland, but "we have actually lived under United States operations for a long time," Mrs. van de Pol explained.

In their previous stay in Saudi Arabia the husband worked for an affiliate of Standard Oil Co. He has worked at Standard's offices in San Francisco since coming to the U.S.

Another husband-wife team to receive citizenship papers are Donald A. Walker and his wife, Elspeth, of 35 Spring Lane, Tiburon. Both hold doctorates in medicine. He is chief of anesthesiology in Franklin Hospital, San Francisco. She has not practiced medicine since they came to Marin County four years ago, but plans to attend University of California at Berkeley next year for public health training.

The Walkers have four children, ages 10 to 5. He is a native of Canada, she of England. Both formerly practiced medicine in Canada.

Leno and Maria Gazzoli, 124 H Street, San Rafael, came to Marin from their native Italy 10 years ago. He is a gardener; she stays busy at home with their three children.

Youngest of the February crop of new citizens is 10-year-old Grace Schmidt, daughter of Mrs. Helen Schmidt of 17 Taylor Street, San Rafael. Along with her naturalization, the girl received a new given name; her name originally was Grazyna.

Citizenship also was conferred in naturalization hearings to:

Mrs. Michiko Kinoshita Hopkins, 946 Vernal Avenue, Mill Valley.

Eduardo Fontana, 55 Corte Comoda, Greenbrae.

John James (formerly Giovanni) Schenone, 28 Palm Avenue, Corte Madera.

Mrs. Ilse Johanna Smith, 373 Bolling Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. Tomiko Oshiro Aldridge, 790 San Jose Boulevard, Novato.

John Francois (formerly Jean Francois) Maillard, 41 North Terrace, Tiburon.

Mrs. Helga Hilde May, 665 Morgan Drive, Novato.

Mrs. Edeltraud Elfriede Parent, 500 Norman Drive, Novato.

Edgar Pye, 63 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

Mrs. Masako Ballew, 50 Seafirth Road, Tiburon.

Light Snow, Rain Falls

CHICAGO (AP) — Light snow and rain dampened scattered sections of the nation today, following the weather pattern of the past several days.

Rain splashed across arid areas of the Southwest. Fairly moderate amounts were reported at Phoenix, Ariz., including one-half inch in a six-hour period. Showers developed eastward across Texas, Louisiana and in the middle Gulf Coast.

More snow flurries fell in the northeastern states southward to mountain areas in Virginia. Light snow spread southeastward through the northern Rockies and in parts of the adjacent Plains States.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the Pacific Northwest.

14 Positive Reactions To TB Tests

Seven seventh graders at San Jose Intermediate School, a sixth grader in the Novato Unified School District and six adult employees of the San Jose District had positive reactions to recent tuberculin tests.

There were 229 San Jose seventh graders tested and 327 Novato sixth graders. Adults in the Novato district were not tested.

The Marin Tuberculosis and Health Assn., one of the sponsors in the test, said a positive reaction does not mean that a person has tuberculosis, but does mean the person has been exposed to the disease. A positive reaction indicates the needs for further tests.

These are being arranged for those who reacted positively to the recent tests.

Others sponsoring the tests were the Marin County Health Department, the county schools office and the school districts. Drs. Donald M. Mason and Richard Walker administered the tests and observed reactions.

Larkspur Trustees Due Classroom Bids

Trustees of Larkspur School District board will consider bids at 8 p.m. today at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School for construction of two classrooms at San Clemente School and four classrooms and a library at Henry C. Hall School.

The board will also hear a report on an in-service training service for teachers.

Seminary Apartment Building To Start

Construction of 15 apartments is beginning at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary at Strawberry, to house seminary students.

Crown Development Co. of San Rafael was awarded the contract to build the two-bedroom apartments in duplex and triplex units. Total construction cost is expected to be $207,500, Harold K. Graves, seminary president, reported.

The construction is part of "Projection 74," a plan for seminary expansion which by 1974 is aimed at having 550 students housed on campus. There now are 277 students attending the school.

Next spring more one and two-bedroom units will be built on campus, Graves reported.

As part of the expansion program, seminary trustees and the development advisory council named Stanton Nash of Atlanta, Ga., as an assistant to the president, in charge of development.

Much of his work will be done in the South, Graves explained, recruiting students for the graduate seminary and attempting to gain funds for the school.

Nash for 10 years was assistant to the pastor of the First Baptist Church in Oklahoma City, and for four years, executive secretary of the Baptist Convention of Hawaii.

The meeting was called by the department at the request of Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker, who represents the area.

Members of the advisory board of Flood Control Zone 7, which covers the area, are scheduled to attend.

When a Family Buys A Home in Central Marin . . . Where Do They Come From?

Latest Research* shows that 69.7% of home buyers in Central Marin are ALREADY LIVING in the County.

This is a ratio of MORE THAN 3½ to 1 than from San Francisco.

BUYER ORIGIN	%
Marin County	69.7
San Francisco	19.6

- The Prime Market then, for home sales, is Marin itself . . . and the I-J Classified "gets home" to the people who buy the MOST HOMES in Marin . . . Marin families themselves because the I-J covers 2 out of 3 homes in the County
- The I-J daily circulation in Marin County is GREATER than that of the San Francisco Chronicle and the Examiner COMBINED!!
- NO WASTE — NO HIGH-PRICED SPACE GOING TO NON-PRODUCTIVE AREAS.

When a Family Buys A Home in Northern Marin . . . Where Do They Come From?

Latest research* shows that 71.9% of home buyers in Northern Marin are ALREADY LIVING in the County.

This is a ratio of almost 5 to 1 MORE than from San Francisco.

BUYER ORIGIN	%
Marin County	71.9
San Francisco	14.6

- The Prime Market then, for home sales, is Marin itself . . . and the I-J Classified "gets home" to the people who buy the MOST HOMES in Marin . . . Marin families themselves because the I-J covers 2 out of 3 homes in the County.
- The I-J daily circulation in Marin County is GREATER than that of the San Francisco Chronicle and the Examiner COMBINED!!
- NO WASTE — NO HIGH PRICED SPACE GOING TO NON-PRODUCTIVE AREAS.

When a Family Buys A Home in Southern Marin . . . Where Do They Come From?

Latest Research* shows that 65.9% of home buyers in Southern Marin are ALREADY LIVING in the County.

This is a ratio of MORE THAN 2 to 1 than from San Francisco.

BUYER ORIGIN	%
Marin County	65.9
San Francisco	31.9

- The Prime Market then, for home sales, is Marin itself . . . and the I-J Classified "gets home" to the people who buy the MOST HOMES in Marin . . . Marin families themselves because the I-J covers 2 out of 3 homes in the County.
- The I-J daily circulation in Marin County is GREATER than that of the San Francisco Chronicle and the Examiner COMBINED!!
- NO WASTE — NO HIGH PRICED SPACE GOING TO NON-PRODUCTIVE AREAS.

Barry's Son Living In Mill Valley

NOW, THE QUIET LIFE — The Goldwater brothers, Barry Jr. (left) and Michael, gave forth with both music and speech as they campaigned for their father for president last year. Now, Michael has settled down to a quiet bachelor life in Mill Valley; his brother, also a bachelor, lives in Los Angeles. (AP Wirephoto)

Michael Goldwater, who traveled over 100,000 miles and made more than 500 speeches to help his father in last year's presidential campaign, is today living a relatively quiet bachelor life in Mill Valley.

Asked how he happened to settle in Marin, the 25-year-old son of former Sen. Barry Goldwater said, "I have been to the San Francisco area many times and always liked it on this side of the bridge."

He said he is considering opening a business of his own here in the Bay Area. "There are several alternatives" as to type of business, he said.

"I still run a company in Phoenix, Ariz.," he added, "a Hi-Fi distribtuion company.

"Our family had its beginning in San Franicsco, setting foot on the soil approximately 130 years ago. There were several Goldwater brothers who came. The first was Michael Goldwater, known as 'Big Mike.' I was named after him. He is buried in a Colma cemetery. He arrived and first set up a mercantile business in San Francisco."

The family then moved southward, winding up in Arizona.

Michael Goldwater was reared in the Phoenix area and was graduated from University of Arizona with a bachelor of science degree in business. He worked in a bank one year as a trainee.

"Election came along," he said, "and I helped Dad in the campaign traveling over 100,000 miles and making over 500 speeches. I spoke at over 50 colleges. My brother and I weren't asked to campaign for him. We decided to do it on our own because we had the same political beliefs he did."

Asked if he is interested in entering politics, Goldwater replied, "I think one politician in the family is enough."

His brother, Barry Jr., works and lives in Los Angeles. His two sisters both live in the Los Angeles area and are married.

Goldwater lives in a house with two other bachelors, Mike Di Giorgio of the Di Giorgio fruit growing family, a student at San Francisco State College, and Bill Shannon, assistant sales manager of Del Webb's Towne House in San Francisco.

Goldwater said he likes to water ski, hunt and play golf. "And the weather," he said, has been playing perfect for all three except water skiing.

"I know I'll enjoy living in the Bay Area. San Francisco is one of my favorite cities. The people are similar in character to those in Phoenix, perhaps not politically but almost in every other manner. It's one of my father's favorite cities also."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Readers Tell Of Getting Mumps Attacks More Than One Time

VAN DELLEN

Can mumps recur? Not as a rule, but a woman reader has a personal experience to report. Her children developed mumps and she followed suit with swelling of the glands on one side of the face and neck. Thirteen years later she developed a second attack involving the glands on both sides. She remained in bed two weeks and at home six weeks. "The first attack did not produce permanent immunity. The second attack was harder on me because I was older. A few years ago I developed regular measles. Old age does not prevent childhood diseases."

A father writes of his son who had mumps when 11, a second attack at 18, and a third at 33 years of age. This is unusual and I assume that his system is incapable of manufacturing protective antibodies against mumps.

AT ANY RATE, the disease does recur in a small percentage, assuming the diagnosis was correct. Now and then the infection settles in one of the salivary glands and a few weeks later spreads to the others. This is not a recurrence; it is the same attack in which the virus spreads from one gland to another. The disease burns itself out as soon as the body develops immunity.

Laboratory animals which nibble all day have less hardening of the arteries than those consuming a large single meal. A reader projected the idea into her way of living and wrote: "I find no fault with this theory as it may apply to the recluse or domestically isolated individual, but as chief cook and bottlewasher for a family, I am dismayed.

"CONSIDER THE appalling consequences in terms of litter, dishes, and the accumulation of garbage. I have no desire to inhibit those who seek scientific methods of dietary practice or a manufacturer of nutritional specialties who might come up with a practical solution. How about handily packaged, balanced, nutritional units with a value of 50 calories each, supplied in capsule or suppository form suitable for self-administration at 20-minute intervals? The litter-free aspect of this around-the-clock ingestion system would appeal to any homemaker."

A good suggestion! But what happens when someone is invited to lunch?

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

ALLERGIC TO ASPIRIN

A. T. writes: Whenever I take aspirin, I break out in hives and my feet swell. Is this an unusual reaction to the drug?

REPLY

Yes, except among the small percentage of our population who are allergic to aspirin.

SYPHILIS AND INFERTILITY

Mrs. G. writes: Can syphilis make a woman sterile?

REPLY

It is possible but many women with this disease have given birth to babies. The condition usually is detected long before delivery because a blood test is done routinely on every pregnant woman.

MENOPAUSE AND THE PILL

J.J.D. writes: Should birth control pills be taken during the menopause?

REPLY

Not if you want more children. But I should take advantage of the Fifth Amendment on this question because anything can happen during the menopause.

TRANQUILIZERS AND ALCOHOL

A.B. writes: Is it true that a person on a tranquilizer should not take an alcoholic beverage?

REPLY

The two may not mix, especially when taken in excess.

NERVOUS WHEN ILL

C. P. writes: I know that nervousness usually is a state of mind. But are there cases caused by physical disorders?

REPLY

Yes. Many individuals become emotionally upset when they are injured or develop infections, peptic ulcer, and other physical disorders. Now and then the psychic aspect is more disabling than the physical.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee has approved a Senate-passed resolution urging Congress to authorize the Auburn Dam-Folsom South Canal Project.

The resolution moved through the Water Committee yesterday without debate. It asked for immediate approval of the 2.5 million acre-foot Auburn Dam on American River upstream from Folsom Dam, and the canal from Nimbus Dam in Sacramento County through 67 miles of Sacramento and San Joaquin counties.

ELKS HONOR MARIN TEENS

Savings bonds went to these four Marin County high school students Monday as district winners in the Elks National Leadership Contest. They were tops among 11 Marin youths who entered the contest, based on school leadership rather than grades. Exalted Ruler James W. Fahrner (right) of San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108 presented the bonds at a dinner. Winners (left to right) are Steve Hebel of Marin Catholic High School, Wayne Parks of Tomales High School, Janice Murray of Marin Catholic and Bonnie Brown of Terra Linda High School.

Rocks And Man And Marin's Timeless Sea

The steep, sea-worn cliffs of Point Reyes dwarf man's small effort for supremacy over the Pacific.

The Coast Guard's lighthouse in the center of this aerial photo looks small indeed against the vast backdrop of a continent and a sweeping coastline.

But this light guides many ships around the rugged Marin coast as they make their way to and from the Golden Gate.

When the thick fog comes, as it often does, settling in for endless days and nights, the fog horn at the light serves as a warning to shipping.

Buildings at the top of the cliff are homes for guardesmen and their dependents.

The body of water beyond is part of Drakes Bay. And beyond that is the Marin skyline.

In the foreground, the power of the sea is clearly etched on the scarred cliffs and among the fallen boulders.

This bit of land is the first vanguard against the long, rolling Pacific waves.

Library Aid Plan Gains

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State aid to local libraries has been approved by an Assembly Ways and Means subcommittee despite a strong attack by the legislative analyst's office.

Clint M. Jordan, principal administrative analyst, said yesterday federal funds could adequately maintain the aid program. But Mrs. Carma A. Leigh, state librarian, said the cut would be "castastrophic."

Analyst A. Alan Post had recommended elimination of $800,000 in state financial grants and $52,000 for program administration.

To Get Licenses

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The Contractors' State License board today announced it will issue a warm-air heating, ventilating and air-conditioning contractors license to Robert G. Laufer, 25 Roosevelt Avenue, Santa Venetia, and a landscaping contractors license to Indian Valley Nursery (Jack O. Burgi), 575 McClay Road, Novato, unless written protest is filed.

Retirement Plan Urged

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Legislation has been introduced to allow teachers migrating to California to bring retirement benefits with them.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, said yesterday his bill is designed to attract experienced out-of-state instructors. He said 3,000 teachers are needed from other states.

Under the bill, instructors would teach in California a minimum of five years. They would then apply out-of-state service by contributing to the State Teachers' Retirement system the same amount required of a California teacher.

90 Minutes Given To Sports Buffs

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — How can you explain to those near and dear to you that you really, honestly, would rather watch Elgin Baylor play basketball than see Carol Channing from front row center in a new musical? The sports buff lives in a world all his own. He is hooked. I go to sleep nights by dreaming of All-Star basketball teams.

Last night, ABC-TV presented a "live" special broadcast designed to appeal to the special world of the sports buff: A sort of Academy Awards show for athletes, 90 minutes in which many great performers were honored for their achievements in 1964.

Bing Crosby was the host. The program was produced in association with Sports Illustrated magazine and Time-Life broadcast. And the setting was the New York City theater of the World's Fair. The dress was black-tie.

Elgin wasn't there because he had a bum leg last year and now he only scores 25 or 30 points a game and only manages 15 or 20 rebounds. But the show went on anyway. Bing was a fine host. John Glenn presented the top award, which was voted to Don Schollander, America's gold medal Olympic swimming star. And with many of the nominated performers on hand in the audience of about 2,500, awards were also presented for individual sports. Among the winners:

For college football: John Huarte, Notre Dame. For pro basketball: Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati Royals. For college basketball: Bill Bradley, Princeton. For baseball: Brooks Robinson, Baltimore Orioles. For pro football: Jim Brown, Cleveland Browns. Runners-up to Schollander for the top award were, in order: Brown, Peter Snell (track), Bradley and Huarte.

The presenters also included sports greats such as Stan Musial and Murray Rose. And there were some good changes of pace with films of sports boners as well as upsets. The program was at its best when the nominees were shown on film in their performances. Future awards shows should have more of this and keep the still shots at a minimum. And if things should get slow, just throw in some footage of Elgin.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: The "CBS Reports" subject for March 22 is abortion . . . Same network's "Twentieth Century" for March 21 deals with the 1944 Warsaw uprising against the Nazis, and includes footage filmed by members of the Polish underground . . . The code review board of the National Association of Broadcasters warns that television commercials of war toys should try to show them as playthings rather than realistically. . .You bet . . . There's nothing cuter than a machine gun. . .The realistic, hard-sell commercials of war toy manufacturers last Christmas season was a disgraceful episode in video's history.

Health Plans Regulation Proposal Gains

SACRAMENTO (AP)—All major health plans would be placed under the regulation of the attorney general under a bill approved by the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, the bill's author, said yesterday the measure was backed by the big plans such as Blue Cross, Blue Shield and the Kaiser plan. The bill provides that the attorney general could order a firm to stop business in California if he accuses it of false advertising, misleading solicitation or writing a deceptive contract.

The committee also approved a bill permitting auto purchasers accused of failing to make their payments to plead fraud by the car dealer as a defense—even though the car dealer has turned the sales contract over to a finance company.

Savings, Loan Bill Is Dumped

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A proposal requiring the state to notify a legislator whenever someone is permitted to open a savings and loan office in his district has been dumped by an Assembly committee.

Assemblyman Burt M. Benson, D-Ventura, told the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee yesterday he introduced the bill because a Republican opponent was granted a savings and loan charter.

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D - Richmond, said the bill might strengthen feeling "that there is political influence in granting savings and loan charters."

Brotherhood Award Given For Youth Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agnes E. Meyer received in Washington last night the National Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The widow of Eugene Meyer, who was chairman of the board of the Washington Post, she was honored for her "distinguished contributions" in the fields of art and letters, education, recreation, housing and medical care and her efforts on behalf of the nation's youth.

Restaurateur's Son Appointed Aide Of Estate

The son of Wyman Franklin (Bob) Campbell, restaurateur found dead aboard his yacht in Marin County last Friday, has been appointed special administrator of the estimated $70,000 estate.

The request, a petition by Frank W. Moulthrop of Lafayette, also known as Wyman Franklin Campbell Jr., was approved yesterday by Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court.

The son's attorney, Samuel Jacobs of San Francisco, said apparently no will was left.

The elder Campbell, 61, died aboard the Folly in San Rafael Yacht Harbor of a heart attack. He was owner of Bob's Steak House in San Francisco and Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera, and principal shareholder in Bob's Burgers Inc. of San Francisco.

Bagley Urges Interchange Landscaping

Why can't the state Division of Highways put in landscaping underneath the Greenbrae interchange?

This suggestion has been passed on to Alan Hart, district engineer for the Division of Highways in San Francisco, by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

In a letter to Hart, the assemblyman noted that earth is piled haphazardly in the interchange area.

"It occurred to us that a landscaping job could be done with a minimum of expense," said Bagley. "Even if someone, at this point, simply threw a thousand poppy seeds (legal variety) in the area, this would be a major contribution."

Hemingway's Son Returns To College

John H. Hemingway of Mill Valley, son of the late writer, Ernest Hemingway, has quit work as a stockbroker and returned to college to study to become a teacher.

Hemingway, 41, who lives at 400 Vista Linda, said he is majoring in French at Sonoma State College and would like to open a private school at Sun Valley, Ida., near Ketchum, where his father lived from time to time, and died four years ago.

The stockbroker worked in San Francisco about 10 years, last working for Kidder Peabody and Co. He and his wife, Byra, have three daughters, Muffett, Margot and Mariel.

Bales Concurs In Criticizing Selma Violence

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today he deplores apparent excessive use of force and violence by law enforcement personnel in Alabama.

He referred particularly to "the shocking aggressive episode that many of us viewed on television that occurred in the city of Selma last Sunday."

Supervisor Chairman Peter H. Behr Tuesday berated law enforcement officers for failing to "stand up and be counted" in opposition to the violence by Alabama officers. He directed his remarks at Bales, and asked that he carry them to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos.

A tape recording of the supervisors' proceedings disclosed that Bales, during Behr's remarks, said "I concur with you." This was not heard by a reporter and not mentioned in Tuesday's story.
